JAP BATTLESHIP HIT, FLEET FLEES FROM U. S. WARCRAFT

Report 1,000 U. S. Workers Taken By Japs

AFL Reveals Capture at Midway, Guam As President Roosevelt Praises Marine Garrison Making Stand Against Foe at Wake Outpost.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The American Federation of Labor announced today that the navy had notified it that more than 1,000 members of its building trades unions had been taken prisoner by the Japanese when Midway and Guam were captured by the enemy.

The AFL said it was informed that 700 of the workers, mostly taken from California to work on army and navy base construction, were captured at Midway and 400 at Guam.

It said that the navy estimated that another 10,000 building trades workers had been taken to Honolulu in the last year or so for defense work and that so far as was known all were safe.

FDR Praises Wake Island Marines

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With the nation's eyes on the heroic American stand at Wake Island, President Roosevelt today gave unstinting praise to the valiant little band of Marines holding that Pacific outpost against repeated Japanese onslaughts.

We are proud of that small group, the president declared, adding that as far as he knew they were still holding out early this morning.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference that the small garrison is doing a perfectly magnificent job.

The small force of Marines not only fought off the Japanese attacks, but managed to launch an aerial blitzkrieg of its own sinking one hostile light cruiser and one enemy destroyer.

Latest word was that the garrison is still holding out—that the flag is still there.

Even if the island falls—and President Roosevelt himself had expressed such fears Tuesday night—the feat of the American Leathernecks will remain one of the most heroic and grandest stories of the war.

Military observers in Washington are beginning to piece the story together from statements of Mr. Roosevelt and bare communiques of the navy. When the story is fully told, they say, it will take its place along with the sage of other great exploits of American

BRITISH DRIVE OFF JAP THRUST

Attackers Repulsed In Malaya; Naval, Air Reinforcements Cheer Defenders.

SINGAPORE — British forces defending northern Malaya fought off the Japanese attackers today and optimism rose as naval and air reinforcements from the Dutch East Indies and other points arrived.

Japanese air raiders appeared less active although Penang, the key point off the western shores of the Isthmus of Kra, was emerging from the worst air attack suffered by any point in Malaya, delivered yesterday.

The feeling here was that of a lull before the storm with both sides mustering their land, sea and air strength for an all-out test.

Singapore, itself, the hub of Far Eastern defense hardly has felt the war thus far except for the activity of the military forces for which the island is the main base of operations in progress hundreds of miles away.

The first surprise Japanese air attack on Singapore was highly ineffective. Debris has been removed and the streets appear normal. Civil defenses are increasingly better organized. Women are lining up in queues to enroll in medi-

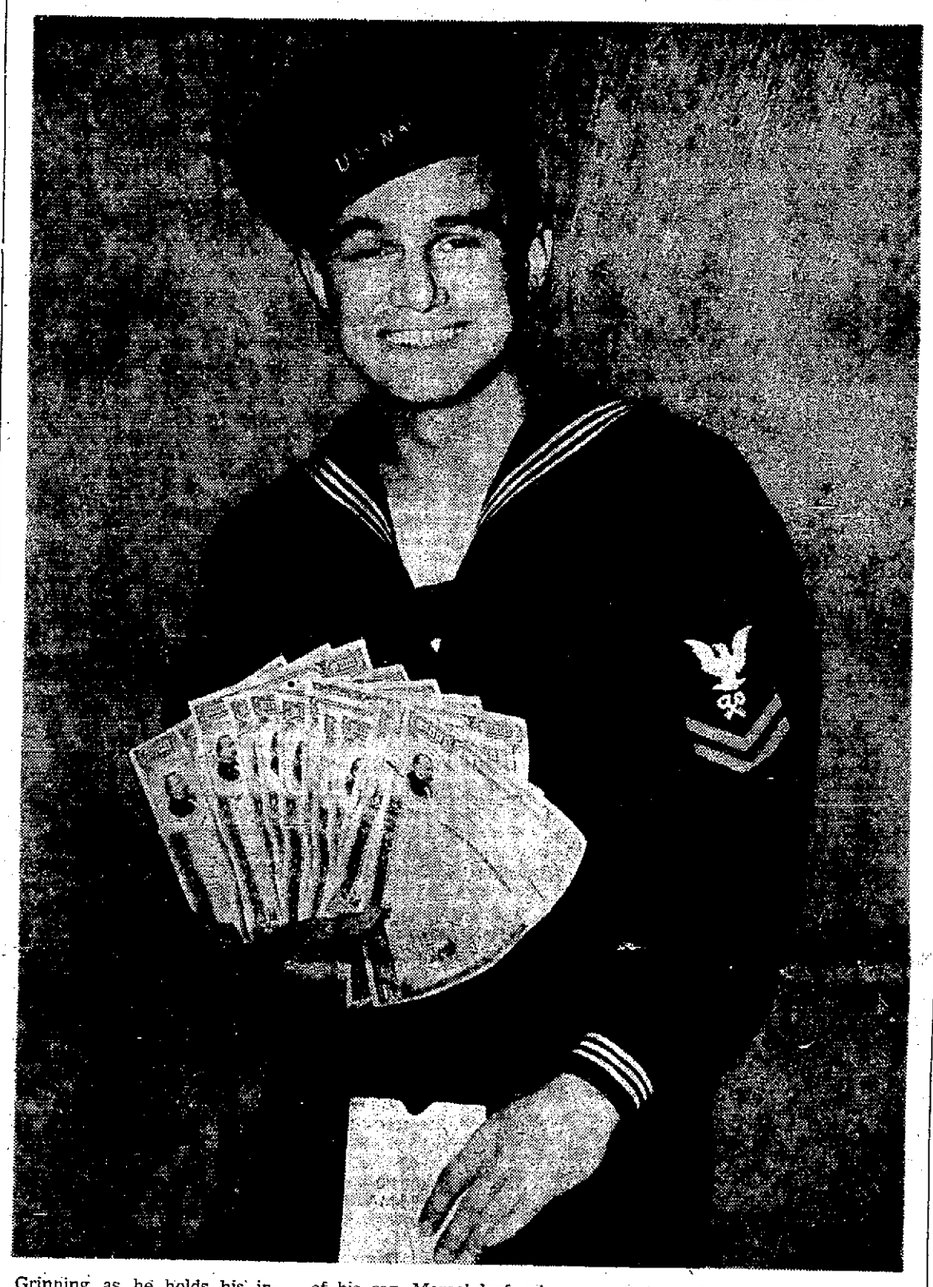
Defends U. S. With Service and Cash



Grinning as he holds his investment in America, Peter Merschdorf, 17 North Willis avenue, displays $1,400 worth of U. S. defense savings bonds, purchased yesterday with savings and the proceeds from the sale of his car. Merschdorf, who enlisted in the U. S. naval reserve a few weeks ago as a second class petty officer, declared: "I couldn't think of a better place to put my money than in defense bonds. I won't need all this money for a while, and I have no use for a car in the navy." Merschdorf, who worked as a storekeeper here, has found employment as a naval storekeeper at a corresponding rate of pay. He purchased the bonds at the Farmers Savings and Trust company.

29,000-TON KONGO DAMAGED; PLANES, SUBS SPUR ATTACK

HAWAII RAIDS LEAVE PEOPLE FIGHTING MAD

Defenders Show Magnificent Valor Under Bombs, Says Eye-Witness.

By EUGENE BURNS
(By Associated Press)

HONOLULU — Oahu island's defenders rose to magnificent heights of valor in the face of six vicious raids on this Pacific outpost by Japanese warplanes last Sunday.

The sudden stab has left them fighting mad.

Fifty to 100 enemy planes participated in the savage thrust. At Pearl Harbor naval base, the Hickman field army base and the Kaneohe naval air base.

The first wave came over at 7:55 a. m. local time, followed by other waves at 11:29 a. m., 11:59 a. m., 12:22 p. m., 7:15 p. m. and 9:10 p. m.

A slight relaxation of censorship today permitted additional details of the raids which killed 49 civilians and injured more than 100.

(In Washington the White House announced army, navy and civilian casualties probably would total 3,000, about equally divided in killed and wounded.

Martial law was proclaimed after the raids and the civilian population, calm and determined, is cooperating splendidly with the military authorities.

Martin Vitousek, 17, and his father perhaps were the first to see the enemy attack.

"Suddenly we were in the thick of a black-painted mass of planes," Martin said. "They rocketed from the sky everywhere and I saw on the wingtip the rising sun of Japan. When the first bomb hit, my heart almost went out on me. Then all hell broke loose."

He said he saw three enemy planes shot down.

Honoluluans, accustomed to army and navy maneuvers, thought it was just another defense practice when they were awakened by the explosions.

The whining shell brought Mrs. Burns and me to our feet. This was no maneuver.

I raced up nearby Tantalus mountain, elevation 1,350 feet,

Filipino Pilots Shoot Down Two Enemy Aircraft, Americans Bag 11; Japan Air Force Continues Heavy Assault on Philippines.

MANILA — Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the Asiatic fleet, revealed today that a Japanese battle fleet fled to avoid battle when American warships approached.

Official communiques reported that American war planes have taken a heavy toll of Japanese planes and ships.

Hart said a 29,300-ton Japanese battleship of the Kongo class had suffered one heavy hit and two lighter hits when bombed by a naval plane. The bombs put the warship out of control. This success was in addition to the sinking of 29,300-ton Haruna. Hart added to information released in Washington last night.

Hart said the American fleet "contacted" the Japanese war fleet a considerable distance off Manila. The enemy ships sheered off to avoid battle.

Developments today:

American submarines are ranging the narrow seas of the war zone and are expected to report major successes when they communicate with their home bases.

American and Philippines planes have struck hard at the Japanese air force; Filipino pilots were credited with shooting down two Japanese planes in action and the Americans bagged 11.

One American army aviator single handed accounted for 14 more Japanese planes, shooting down two in the air and knocking out 12 on the ground at Aparri on the northern tip of Luzon this morning.

The Japanese air force continued its heavy attacks, raiding Batanga, capital of Batanga province, 50 miles southeast of Manila, twice and causing two more air raid alarms in Manila.

Out of the heavy air action emerged the first American heroes of the war.

They were:

First Lieut. Boyd D. Wagner, U. S. army air corps, who carried out the attack on the Japanese air base at Aparri this morning, downing two planes in a violent dog fight and racing down to low levels to attack the Japanese planes on the ground, destroying 12.

Capt. Colin Kelly, jr., army air force, who scored three direct hits on the battleship Haruna, giving his life in scoring the first major American victory of the war.

Lieut. C. A. Keller, naval aviator, who spotted the Kongo class battleship northwest of Luzon and held it in sight despite fierce anti-aircraft fire until naval bombers led by Lieut. Commdr. J. V. Peterson came up to press home the attack which put the warship out of action.

(A National Broadcasting company reporter at Manila said it had been officially confirmed that the Kongo class battleship hit by U. S. bombs was the Kongo itself. He reported that the Japanese sent at least 113 bombers over the Philippines today, attacking various objectives including an airfield at Batanga.)

The attack on Batanga was carried out by two flights of 27 Japanese bombers each, the Philippines constabulary reported. There were a number of casualties, it was reported.

Manila was on a virtual full war footing today.

All Axis aliens were placed in protective custody and a decision was being pondered concerning action against Spanish nationals and members of the Falange Fascist party.

Admiral Hart's announcement asserted that surface ships of the Asiatic fleet had contacted the enemy fleet at a considerable distance from Manila but the Japanese made off and a fight did not develop.

JOINS DEMANDS FOR TAX SPLIT

Mansfield Delegation Attends Protest Session; Mayor Goes Alone.

At least six Mansfield and Richland county officials attended the state-wide meeting of more than 250 municipal officers and 500 interested tax payers in Columbus yesterday at which Gov. John W. Bricker was asked to distribute a part of the sales tax surplus to Ohio's local governmental units.

The Mansfield delegation attended in the hope of getting a share to be used for the improvement of the city's neglected airport and to help pay for local civilian defense program costs.

Councilman Fred Miller, who headed the Mansfield group, said that the meeting had authorized a special committee to present Gov. Bricker with a new demand for a special session of legislature to divide a portion of the surplus. Accompanying Miller were Councilmen J. J. Kutschall and Arthur L. Croak and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley.

Mayor William J. Locke also attended the meeting but not with the Mansfield delegation. He said today that he had no verbal statement to make but that he had some "definite thoughts" on the meeting he would present in a

Meanwhile, another phase of the defense problem, the training of pilots at the Mansfield airport, was resumed.

James R. Harrington, airport manager, said that the pilot-training courses were resumed las

We of 'Inner Front' Vital to Victory In War, Newsmen Says

Affirming that "we are the inner front from which America's leaders, army and navy can draw new strength during war with the Axis," Richard C. Hottelet, United Press correspondent in Berlin four years, told an audience of 700 at Johnny Appleseed auditorium last night that "we are going to win the war only if the people are united."

The surprise attacks delivered by Japan on Hawaii last Sunday were launched simultaneously, Hottelet said, not only to keep hostilities far out from the Japanese mainland and to break the steel blockade that is being forced by America and her allies but "to soften American resistance and induce a false feeling of despair.".

"The Japanese hoped to induce us to capitulate and to come to terms with the totalitarian powers, thereby proving Hitler's premise that 'democracy is decadent,'" said Hottelet.

Speaking at the Give-A-Christmas benefit performance sponsored jointly by The Mansfield News-Journal and the Junior Chamber of Commerce to raise funds to fill Christmas baskets for the city's needy, Hottelet predicted that "the war will be long and hard but we will win it by crushing the Axis forces marshalled against us."

Funds received at the box office last night amounted to $250, according to Paul Eliot, treasurer of the Give-A-Christmas organiza-

PRICES SOAR

Wheat $1.19, Hogs $10.50 on Mansfield Markets.

Spurred by the nation's entry into war, wheat prices rocketed to a new four-year high of $1.19 a bushel in Mansfield today.

Wheat has gone up nine cents since Monday when the local market opened at $1.10. The hog market also felt the effects of war with the price 50 cents higher this morning to make top hogs $10.50.

The government placed a ceiling on the soy bean market, setting the top December price at $1.77. Beans were listed today at that figure, but Mansfield millers said they were receiving none.

Soy beans are in big demand for defense purposes and with a limited supply in the country, the price threatened to reach a record high.

Farm Bureau Urges Government Set Commodity, Wage Ceilings.

Philippines Being Attacked From East and West Coasts

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war department announced today the Japanese were attacking the Philippine Island of Luzon from several directions, on the east as well as the west coast.

In a communique, the department said Lieutenant General Douglas MacArthur reported enemy concentrations at Legaspi and off the west coast of Zambales. Legaspi is the major Philippine port on the Pacific side of the islands, about 220 miles from Manila. Zambales is the peninsula northwest of Manila extending southward toward the fortress of Corregidor which guards the entrance to Manila bay.

The communique said:

"1. Philippine theater:

"The commanding general of the far eastern command reports the Japanese are making a series of concentric thrusts on the Island of Luzon. Enemy concentrations are reported at Legaspi and off the west coast of Zambales. The enemy is augmenting its forces at Aparri and Vigan.

"2. Hawaii: No operations reported.

"3. West coast: No change in the situation."

West Coast Alarms, Blackouts Renewed

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—San Diego had its third blackout of the war and Los Angeles its second alert early this morning but then all clear signals were given an hour later.

San Diego was ordered blacked out at 2:34 a. m. (5:35 a. m. EST) and 12 minutes later Los Angeles was put on the alert.

"There's something out there (off San Diego) and we thought we'd better put out on alert," a spokesman for the army information service said. He did not identify the "something."

Los Angeles' first alert last night, intended only for police and sheriff's deputies but misdirected into a blackout warning, confused Angelenos far more than the city's blackout the previous evening.

Col. H. S. Fuller of the army's information service said the alert was intended only for civil officials, to prepare them for possible blackout or air raid warnings. However, "signals were mixed up," he added, and sirens screamed and radios were ordered silenced. The all clear signal was given an hour later.

In the area of Santa Cruz, residents along a 40-mile stretch of shoreline breathed easier after a three and one half hour blackout and a hurried evacuation of about 1,000 persons from the waterfront district.

'Peace Conditions' Listed In Russia

KUIBYSHEV, Russia—(AP)—Ousting of "the Hitler gang" and a joint Moscow-London-Washington agreement are listed here as prerequisites of any paece between the Soviet Union and Germany, for which feelers have been reported from Berlin.

David Zaslavsky of Pravda, the official Communist party newspaper, cited these conditions in an editorial, saying:

"The Hitler gang is ready any day to sign a peace with Russia if only our government would talk with them."

At the same time, the Soviet government received from United States and Japanese diplomats formal notification that the United States and Japan are at war.

The United States notification, made by Embassy Councilor Walter Thurston, was received in what was described here as a "cordial atmosphere."

New army gains on both the southwestern front and at the center before Moscow, where Germany's high command is declared to have substituted Field Marshal Siegmund List for General Fedor von Bock, were announced by the Soviet information bureau in a Moscow broadcast today.

(A Pravda report also broadcast today from Moscow said Soviet cavalrymen of Lieutenant General Kostenko had "recaptured an area containing about 30 villages' in the Olets area south of Moscow (London commentators expressed belief that local Russian drives were developing into a full scale counterattack along the whole line against the frost-bitten German legions maneuvering now, by Berlin accounts, to dig in for the winter

Chinese Attack Jap Flank, Rear

HONG KONG—(UP)—Chinese troops, developing a powerful offensive, are striking at the flank and rear of Japanese forces attacking Hong Kong and have caused a temporary weakening, at least, of the Japanese drive, it was said officially today.

The Chinese offensive, directed personally by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek with the aid of British advisers, according to wireless and other reports from China, has assumed big proportions already.

Not only are the Chinese attacking throughout the Canton zone, 90 miles west of Hong Kong, according to reports, but are moving masses of men toward the coast to attack the Japanese north of the colony.

The Chungking radio asserted that the drive was aimed directly at aiding the Canadian and British forces defending Hong Kong against overwhelmingly more numerous Japanese forces.

British Fight 50 Miles Past Tobruk

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—British troops have destroyed the German 361st African regiment and have fought through a two-day sandstorm in a 50-mile advance beyond Tobruk, it was reported officially today.

Details of the destruction of the German regiment were not given beyond a statement that it occurred in "recent fighting in Libya."

Earlier a communique disclosed that the drive westward from Tobruk had partly encircled Gazala and penetrated perhaps 120 miles beyond the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

Jap Battleship Hit, Fleet Flees Battle

29,000-Ton Kongo Damaged as Planes And Subs Spur Attack; Americans Bag 11 Enemy Aircraft.

(The navy department communique No. 3 on the Pacific war said:

("The navy department announced that Adm. Thomas C. Hart, U. S. navy, commander in chief, United States Asiatic fleet, has reported that navy patrol planes scored bomb hits on a Japanese battleship of the Kongo class off the coast of Luzon. The ship was badly damaged.

("This is the second Japanese battleship to be bombed effectively by United States forces.")

Manila had a daylight air raid alarm at 9:43 a. m.

United States and Philippine forces were reported to be fighting Japanese landing parties in the Legaspi area, at the southeast tip of Luzon island 210 miles from Manila, and it was admitted that Japanese troops were now in greater force in northern Luzon.

Hart said the navy's Cavite base, eight miles southwest of Manila, had been hit by a powerful Japanese airplane attack. There were extensive fires and great damage was done, he said. Small ships lying at the yard were also damaged.

One bomb directly hit a dispensary, Hart said, and everyone in it was killed, including nurses and doctors. He emphasized that the dispensary was in the center of a fortified area.

Hart said that the navy had lost two large planes in the Gulf of Davao Monday, approximately one hour after a Pearl Harbor attack. One pilot was lost and some members of the crew were wounded, he said.

Since Monday, he added, one large navy plane had been shot down at Laguna De Bay, 30 miles from Manila, and all members of the crew were killed.

Japanese Deny Loss of Two Battleships In Battle

(By United Press)

Japan denied today that it had lost two battleships off the Philippine Islands and asserted that in a combined naval and military operation it had landed a new force of invasion troops in southern Luzon island.

It said, in an imperial headquarters communique, that since the start of the Philippines action one Japanese light cruiser had been slightly damaged off Luzon, that one mine sweeper had been sunk and that another had been severely damaged.

Apparently, the communique said, the light cruiser was mistaken for the battleship Haruna, which the United States reported sunk.

The mine sweeper which was damaged, it said, was struck by a bomb after capturing an American merchant ship in a Luzon harbor.

Tokyo asserted that in northern Luzon American forces were fleeing southward, destroying roads behind them.

It asserted that the Vichy government had assured Japan of its "strict neutrality" in the Pacific war.

In the first Japanese threat against Russia, Japanese newspapers at Shanghai quoted Tokyo circles as showing "certain a skepticism regarding the sincerity of Russia in its neutral attitude toward Japan."

A joint communique by the army and navy sections of Japanese imperial headquarters at Tokyo said Japanese land and naval forces were landed in southern Luzon at 6 a. m. today.

Tokyo radio, in a broadcast heard by the United Press in San Francisco, said the landing was effected as a surprise operation.

"The fresh-landed troops are continuing operations in the south while other units in the north are marching southward," Tokyo said.

This broadcast asserted that 167 United States planes had been shot down in the Philippines Wednesday and that "of a total of 250 American planes known to be in the Philippines 238 have been destroyed, including Boeing B-17 flying fortresses and Consolidated long range bombers."

A German broadcast quoted Tokyo advices that the Japanese had captured a strong position in the fighting in northern Luzon after throwing back the defending troops.

Twins Prove Bit Over-Anxious to Serve Country

CANTON—(AP)—They are twins, about five feet four inches tall, and would like the recruiting officers to believe they are 17 years old.

Army Recruiter Don Frazer saw them first, after they had waited in line for about an hour. He explained the army's regulations specify a minimum age of 18. It seemed to him they weren't a day over 14.

Marine Sergeant Thomas B. Rhea was next. Finally he bluntly told them that in his opinion they were not old enough, and that he would require proof of age.

Navy Recruiter Charles B. Keenan was a little more subtle.

"When were you born?" both answered, "1924."

Turning to one, he asked "What month?"

"June."

Turning to the other, he asked, "And you?"

"August."

The first twin looked at the second in angry dismay. The second blushed in confusion.

"Thanks for coming in," said Keenan.

"We'll get in somehow," said one as they left.

Germans Report Jap Landings

LONDON —(U.P.)— The German radio reported from Shanghai today that Japanese forces, supported by parachutists, have landed along a 155-mile stretch of the northern Luzon coast.

The German broadcast was heard by the United Press listening post.

It claimed that Japanese troops have landed near Pamplona, about 25 miles west of Aparri, and all along the north and northwest coast.

The Nazi report indicated Japanese landings from the vicinity of Aparri to Vigan on the western Luzon shore.

Heavy damage was caused at Aparri by bombardment by Japanese warships, Berlin radio claimed.

The Germans offered no details of the alleged operations of Japanese parachutists.

tion, although this figure is by no means complete. Most of the retail merchants handling tickets have not reported, Eliot said, but it is estimated that their sale will net another $50.

Hottelet, whose four years in Germany brought him into intimate contact with the Nazi regime, declared that America is well aware of the way of life that would face this country "if we were to slacken our resolve."

"We know we would face complete destruction not only of our material goods and values and the abstract conception of the democratic way of life, but the destruction of the lives of each of us as we live 24 hours a day," he said.

"I saw this happen to the people chained under a totalitarian system," Hottelet continued, recalling the undercover methods used by the Nazis to gather information. He mentioned the dictaphones planted under rugs and behind pictures in private homes, and the "little essays" the school children are asked to write on such subjects as "What daddy thinks of the Fuhrer?"

In contrasting the attitude of the German people with those of the United States at the outset of their respective entries into the conflict as he had observed it, Hottelet said "indecision hung over the German people. They did not want war, only peace and normalcy."

Washington presented a different picture this week. The faces of the people indicated "they knew what they were fighting for and were unanimous in wanting to crush the powers that had forced war upon us."

Aside from the "bombs and bullets that will carry a message that our enemies can understand," Hottelet declared that "the American people have a powerful ally that in the dark hours that lie ahead will support us and give us strength to draw upon. That ally, one that Japan, Germany and Italy do not have, is the conviction that we are fighting a just cause."

"It is this ally," the speaker claimed, "that has helped the British, Chinese and Russian people, with their backs to the wall to come forward with new vigor."

As to what America is doing to avenge Pearl Harbor, the speaker said, "I can assure you that America is striking back—showing the Japanese that this loosely knit democracy of ours is capable of carrying on a war, and that the Axis has based its hope on future domination on a silly, childish fallacy."

Hottelet was kept supplied during his lecture with news bulletins from the United Press wires that were kept open by The News-Journal to keep the audience informed on last minute developments in the war situation. And he obligingly answered questions after the speech.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the Mansfield Civilian Defense committee, introduced Hottelet in the absence of Author Louis Bromfield who was detained in Columbus where he was on a program for the Ohio State Grange convention.

Mansfield's Senior high school band under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe enlivened the first part of the evening with a group of spirited selections while the drum major and drum majorettes entertained on the stage with some fancy baton twirling and catching.

Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine's Treble choir beautifully sang several numbers including "America the Beautiful," "Thanks Be To God," and the Christmas carol, "Silent Night."

REDUCES LEAVE AT CAMP SHELBY

Authorities Decree Only 25 Per Cent Can Be on Furlough.

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—(INS)— Under changes in holiday leaves for the 37th Ohio Division announced today, soldiers on furlough may not exceed 25 per cent of the division's strength.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler decreed that officers may not be gone more than 12 days and soldiers not more than eight days. Previously, it had been planned to allow approximately 50 per cent of the division's personnel Christmas leaves of at least two weeks.

It also was announced that 50 over-age officers who are eligible for retirement have been transferred to army air corps administration posts.

CIGARET DRIVE RECEIVES BIG RESPONSE HERE

Service Organizations Pack Up Smokes, Candy For Men In Armed Forces.

War developments of the last few days have provided a terrific stimulus to the "Smokes" for Yanks" campaign now drawing to a close in Mansfield, sponsors of the activity reported today.

Public response has been generous, according to Sam Fox, commander of McVey post, American Legion. Service clubs, civic and fraternal organizations, and individuals continued today to pour in cartons of cigarets to the supply already on hand at the American Legion home on Park avenue west.

Latest to rally to the campaign are the city's school children. Using the slogan, "Sacrifice a Candy Bar," the children are building a mountain of sweets—expected to total 5,000 candy bars and packages of chewing gum.

Aim of the campaign is to send a Christmas package, containing a carton of cigarets, four bars of cands, a package of gum, to each of the 1,000 boys from Mansfield and vicinity now in various branches of the military service. The packages, which will be sent by parents and guardians of the servicemen, may be obtained at the Legion home.

Fox urged the parents to come to the Legion home next Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday to pick up the packages. The packing is being done by members of the Home Service club, made up of mothers of boys in the service.

Word was sent to Legion posts in Lexington and Bellville advising them that enough packages will be collected to provide for boys from those communities now in service.

First school children to complete their candy collection were those at Hedges school. A Christmas program was held there, and during the intermission two boys, one dressed as a Boy Scout and one as Uncle Sam, passed the hat for donations. Robert Boling, a member of the staff of The Spy, student publication which sponsored the collection, headed a delegation which brought a check and a box of candy bars to Fox.

Organizations which have made contributions of cigarets to the drive, as listed by Fox, are:

The Lions, Kiwanis, Rotary, Gyro, Amima, Co-Op, and Optimist clubs, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Masonic groups of Mansfield, the Moose, Delano lodge, the 40 and 8 Society, Liederkranz, Elks club, Junior Association of Commerce, G. B. U., Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Eagles, K. of C., Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club, Thirty-Seventh Division, Credit Bureau and Retail Merchants, Police department, Electrical Workers union, Building Trades union, and the Ahepa society.

HITS SABOTAGE

Company Official Says Power Line Deliberately Damaged.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (INS) — The main transmission line bringing power from Phoenix to Luke field, the army's advanced training base a short distance from the city, has been "deliberately sabotaged," it was charged today by E. H. Coe, president of the Central Arizona Light and Power company.

Appearing before the Phoenix civilian defense committee, Coe declared insulators on the line had been shattered with rifle fire.

The insulators were shattered, he said, shortly after 1 a. m. Thursday, but no serious damage was done.

BLACKOUT PLANNED

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Mayor Floyd Green announced that he had been asked by federal officials to make preparations for a blackout test of Ohio's capital city and other subdivisions in the area at the "earliest possible moment."

night after all pilots had been grounded since early Monday.

The Mansfield police department has been rushed with pilot students and private pilots, wishing to be fingerprinted and photographed, to comply with the wartime regulations. Identification Officer Ernest Fuller had fingerprinted and "mugged" approximately 50 pilots this week.

Howard G. Meyers, flight superintendent of the Civilian Pilot Training division of the Civil Aeronautics authority has been in Mansfield for the past three days, supervising the re-issue of student pilot licenses.

In addition to being fingerprinted and photographed, pilots must supply birth certificates and data to show that they are not aliens or directly connected with aliens.

Harrington announced that student pilot training had been resumed because it was part of the nation's plan to develop pilots for defense. Private pilots will be forced to wait for a week or ten days however, until a complete check has been made.

To carry on the training program, Harrington said that he had complied with a governmental order requiring the posting of armed guards around the airport 24 hours a day.

Kalbfleisch said that the auxiliary firemen and police and first aid workers would be registered first because their training period would be lengthy. He pointed out that messengers, truck drivers and other defense workers may be trained in a short period of time.

Workers in the Health department have aided Kalbfleisch by preparing and mimeographing questionnaires for the registration of civilian defense workers. Kalbfleisch said the health workers had contributed not only the time but materials for the work.

Russell Kemp, business agent of the Truckers' union, AFL, said today that a shortage of trucks and truck-bodies is having its effect on shipments of both war and civilian materials. Kemp said that truck manufacturers are making war machines.

PATIENTS HIT

Third To Be Sent Home Because Sanitarium Lacks Funds.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Franklin County Tuberculosis Sanitarium announced today that about one-third of its 300 patients would be sent home and part of the hospital closed on Dec. 23 because of lack of funds next year.

Voters turned down a .65 mill levy for hospital operating funds at the November election.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1941.

Now it's "America First" in reality—instead of lending that title to a group of misguided isolationist zealots.

Lilliputians can hurt and annoy a Gulliver, but they can't hold him down, once he makes up his mind to get rid of them.

Withdrawal of Japanese-made merchandise from sale in this country does away with the need for looking carefully to see that no "Made In Japan" imprint has been adroitly concealed on the article.

Calmly and Confidently Accepted

ACTUAL declarations of war on the United States by Germany and Italy came as an anti-climax after Japan's ruthless start of undeclared warfare in the Pacific last Sunday.

Just why Hitler and Mussolini considered it advisable to go through the formalities of reverting to the more honorable custom of declaring war has not yet been disclosed. This is at variance with previous procedure of these blood-thirsty gangsters and can scarcely be regarded as an attempted gesture of decency on their part.

Coming in a period when Nazi forces in Russia are being driven back; when German and Italian armies in Libya face destruction: when Great Britain is attaining constantly increasing air power; when China is spurred to greater efforts by Japan's plunge into war with the United States and Britain, and when the tremendous potential military strength of America has been dedicated to all-out determination to win the war—the declarations of Germany and Italy could not have been better timed than now to meet calm and confident acceptance in the Western Hemisphere.

Even yesterday's session of congress, at which there was formal acceptance of Germany's and Italy's challenge, lacked the dramatic elements of Monday's gathering when similar action was taken against Japan, and the unanimous vote in both house and senate spoke the will and determination of united America.

In contrast to the hour-and-a-half harangue of Hitler before the reichstag, President Roosevelt needed but two minutes and 135 words to tell congress of the actuality of war against all three of the Axis powers. "The long known and the long expected has thus taken place," he said, and congress acted promptly and properly.

The question that should now be asked by every American man, woman and child is "What can I do to help win the war?" Each CAN do something—each MUST do something!

War-Time Call of the Red Cross

CALL from the American Red Cross for $30,000 in contributions from Mansfield and Richland county, for war-time work and civilian relief, is expected to meet with the prompt response which marked previous appeals of this organization in times of emergency.

This Richland county quota is a part of the national campaign to raise a minimum of $50,000,000 for services which the Red Cross must be depended upon to perform, not only locally and in the United States, but throughout the world.

Not since the years of 1917 and 1918, when the United States was an active participant in the first World war, has there been such urgent need for quick expansion of Red Cross facilities as now exists.

One of the many obligations that will rest upon civilian Americans in war-time is adequate financial support of the Red Cross, coupled with willingness to give time and effort to local activities of that organization.

Adjustment To Climate Changes

THE physiological processes of men from temperate climates change in severely cold regions. That is what Dr. Ernest E. Lockhart of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology found as physiologist of the government expedition to the Antarctic It was part of his job to make a detailed study of the physical condition of the men during their stay in the land of ice and snow.

He noted definite changes in breathing rate, heart beat, and so on. They were slightly lower than normals recorded in temperate climates. Blood sugar levels, on the other hand, were a little above normal. The conclusion was that the men became acclimated to the prevailing weather conditions around the South Pole and again to the temperate zone when they returned to it.

No doubt it is equally possible for men in the north to adjust themselves to the climate of tropical regions. Health seems to be better in the temperate and frigid zones than in the torrid, but that may have other causes than weather. When various disease-carrying insects are eliminated and food and water supplies are protected, people get along well enough in hot climates, with or without great humidity.

No part of the planet, apparently, is wholly unlivable for people from any other part. Nature may have planned it that way.

Will Ask Drunks To Use Taxis

RECOGNIZING the danger of drunken driving, a holiday safety program is being developed in Columbus with emphasis on attempting to keep drinkers from behind the steering wheel.

Co-operation of all the city's liquor permit holders and night club operators is to be asked in posting signs above bars suggesting that the management be authorized to call a taxi to convey inebriated patrons to their homes, instead of driving their own cars.

Inclination of some people to regard increased use of intoxicants as proper observance of the Christmas holidays has heretofore resulted in unusually high traffic death toll in a number of cities and Columbus is much distressed by this year's bad record in that area, which accounts for the extra effort to keep December fatalities to a minimum.

Anything that will help along this line will be welcomed and the outcome of the Columbus experiment will be watched with interest.

Now that the word "dastard" has been resurrected for daily use, the specific meaning, as applied to Japan, is: "One who sneakingly does malicious acts"—and the appellation seems quite fitting, even if rather mild.

A sociologist estimates that any crackpot movement in this country can attract two million subscribers—and even at ten cents a throw that makes quite a neat haul.

Those who live from hand to mouth have the best appetites.

MEMO: "REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR"

Capital Buckles Down for War

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Just when Washingtonians were convinced that the nation's capital was becoming the world center of bedlam—war broke loose.

It caught thirty-odd thousands of official and unofficial Washington at their favorite Sunday pastime, watching a "pro" football game. The news, 10 minutes after it was flashed over The Associated Press wires, reached a group of F.B.I. officials. It was called up over two rows of spectators by a messenger who had taken a telephone call from headquarters. Like waves from a pebble in a puddle, the news circled the field.

Within a few minutes the half was over and the stands were deserted by thousands as army, navy and other government officials rushed to report for duty.

Lights went on in the early afternoon winter dusk in the White House, the state department, OPM, the army and navy buildings, and many of the embassies—to be dimmed only by daylight.

LIGHT went on around the Japanese embassy too, but a different kind of light. It was the flicker of a big bonfire that rose from the backyard of the embassy on Massachusetts avenue as officials heaped box after box of records and papers into the flames. The avenue became a glut of traffic, as the curious piled in to see what was going on. And on the roof, as long as the light lasted, a son of Nippon took pictures of the crowd.

Overnight, the capital, which heretofore has seen uniforms on only the non-commissioned officers and men of the armed forces, took on the appearance of an armed camp as the thousands of army and navy officers on desk duty here went into uniform. Only those who were here more than 20 years ago when the hordes working in Washingtotn were ordered "out of uniform" have any basis for comparison of the warlike appearance of the capital.

The utter confusion of commentators who for days had been predicting that nothing would happen in the Pacific was matched only by the surprise of those who had been saying that something would.

DIGGING down through the clutter of predictions from government officials, I found one from the same man who wrote a report for the president, saying that the war on the Russian front would outlast the winter. What this minor government official (he must remain anonymous) said this time was that the Japanese "would precipitate a war with the United States" and soon. He called it hara-kiri (recognized by the Japanese as "an honorable suicide" much more preferable than living in dishonor). He said it was the only way Japan could "save face" both with her allies and her enemies and that to the Japanese this would be much more important than economic, industrial and military considerations.

So far as wartime personnel is concerned, Washington and the nation are far ahead of that spring in 1917. There are approximately a million persons in the District of Columbia and its suburbs, more than twice what it had 20 years ago before most of the World War expansion had been eliminated. There are nearly a quarter of a million persons working for the government here—and throughout the country and foreign lands more than 800,000 additional. There are now about 2,000,000 persons in the armed forces. Another million is enrolled for civilian defense and that figure is expected to double immediately.

Housing and office space here are at such a premium that the stories of overcrowding and high rentals would fill a volume. On weekends when soldiers from nearby camps and government employes are on the move, it is impossible to get within a block of Union Station—only a few years ago ridiculed for its size as something to which the city could never grow up.

Is it any wonder that Washingtonians are saying that the capital is far ahead, in bedlam, of what it was when World War 1 broke out?

Timely Editorial

Holiday Spirit Holds.

War cannot do extensive damage to the holiday spirit, which is composed of equal parts of:

Impulse to give as many people as possible as nice a Christmas as possible; anticipation of family gatherings about the Christmas dinner table; gaudily trimmed Christmas trees; the sending and receiving of Christmas cards; the bustle and anxiety and fun of Christmas shopping; the parties that occur between Thanksgiving and Chirstmas; colored lights and special decorative effects; toys of every kind; curiosity about Chirstmas presents; Christmas music; Christmas wrapping paper; crowds of people on the streets and in the stores; and the universal realization that Christmas has become for the United States a kind of festival characterized by the desire to give and show goodwill.

Even skeptics cannot be entirely obvious of the way the holiday spirit is kept glowing by some mysterious incandescent quality in human nature that reaches its peak in the month preceding Dec. 25.—Canton Repository.

An Early Mistake In England

Editor's Note—In new conditions to be faced as a result of the United States being forced into war, recital of some of the experiences in England at the start-off of war against that country may be helpful to Americans in planning their course of action. The following editorial, from a recent issue of the Chicago Tribune, is directed to the attention of merchants, manufacturers and other users of newspaper advertising space.

ONE DAY about fifteen years ago Orphan Annie, through oversight was omitted from The Tribune. The next day The Tribune switchboard was swamped with calls from persons who wanted to know if Annie didn't live here any more. No news event down to that time had produced a similar response. The Tribune didn't realize the popularity of the little orphan until the morning she was missing. She hasn't failed to appear in a single edition since that day.

In a somewhat similar way British shopkeepers and manufacturers never realized the importance of their advertising activities until they omitted them right after the start of the war. Cecil Chisholm, chairman of Business Publications, London, in an issue of the weekly, Printers' Ink, told about the experiment and how it was forced upon London business men right after the outbreak of hostilities. "We all expected London to be bombed from the word "go", Mr Chisholm said, "and as a result the volume of newspaper advertisements fell to 45 per cent of normal and posters to 20 per cent."

But the bombs didn't appear as scheduled. Mr. Chisholm said that he will never forget his "surprise in walking down the Embankment to find St. Paul's and Bush House intact on the morning of September 4."

When September 1939 passed without a bomb falling in the British capital, the manufacturers and merchants looked with dismay at their sales results. They found that "their turnover had dropped as soon as advertising was stopped." They then took heart and increased their lineage to about normal proportions and "they discovered that sales responded when advertising was renewed. The evidence of advertising's power was never more pointed."

The effectiveness of advertising was revealed in the sales of competitors who followed divergent advertising policies. Thus it seems that Oxo and Bovril are rival brands. When war came, Mr. Chisholm said, "Bovril never batted an eye but went right on with its planned program. Oxo, on the other hand, went right out of the press and stayed out for six months. Sales were so much affected that "soon Oxo felt compelled to get back in the press and spend more than Bovril.

Whole industries had to relearn the lesson. In one of the apparel trades, where many makers have their own shops, all manufacturers cut off advertising in September. Sales dried up. Several firms started advertising again in October; immediately sales blossomed." It seems that the lesson has been learned so well that even concerns which have nothing immediately to offer to consumers now engage in advertising to be sure that when normal conditions return they will again have the custom of old patrons. Thus, "having nothing to sell, Rolls Royce, Morris and Ford have all run informing campaigns purely to keep the individuality of their product in the public mind."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Blunt Questions Are Being Asked About Surprise Attack on Hawaii

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The storm of criticism over the navy's tragic failure at Hawaii broke privately, and before the public knew any details, at the president's Sunday night session with cabinet and congressional chiefs.

Senator Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the foreign relations committee, was particularly insistent in asking blunt questions as to why our forces were caught unprepared.

As the cabinet and congressional advisers filed into the large red room on the second floor of the White House, the president greeted them grimly, saying he supposed they had all been listening to the radio reports and knew what had happened; that there was little to add except to say, of course, that he would ask congress to declare war.

"But Mr. President," spoke up Connally, "what in the world was wrong with our forces at Hawaii? Apparently they weren't on the job. How did they get caught like that?"

The president replied he was unable to answer, as complete reports had not been received, but on the basis of reports which had come in, the damage to manpower and equipment was pretty heavy.

Pressed by Connally for details, the president said that on the basis of information received up to then, at least one battleship and one destroyer had been sunk and about 1,500 killed.

"It's amazing to me that our army and navy forces weren't prepared for an attack," said Connally. "I can't understand how that Japanese airplane carrier and those submarines could have approached so close without someone being aware of them."

Spat With Knox.

THE plain-talking Texan also turned his quiz guns on Navy Secretary Knox, demanding sharply: "What's the matter with those commanders of yours out there?"

Knox defended the officers, contending they were brave and conscientious.

"I didn't question their courage or integrity," retorted Connally. "What the country wants to know is why our forces were caught napping."

Republican congressional chiefs Charles McNary of the Senate and Joe Martin of the house said nothing until the conference broke up. Then, both warmly shook the president's hand and assured him of their wholehearted support henceforth.

"The die is cast, Mr. President," said McNary gravely. "We're all shoulder to shoulder until we see this thing through."

"Yes, from now on you can count on 100 per cent support for your foreign policies from our side of the aisle," added Martin.

"Thanks," replied the president, with an affectionate grin. "I always knew I could count on both of you in the showdown."

Annapolis Admirals.

ON THE NIGHT Japan caught American forces napping in Hawaii, Governor Charles Edison of New Jersey, formerly secretary of the navy, was being entertained in Washington. Very few details of the attack had trickled in at that time. But immediately Edison remarked:

"Judging by the news so far, they have used the strategy we had always suspected. By this time I would say the Japanese had taken Guam, Wake and Kodiak Bay (in the Aleutian Islands.)"

What ex-Secretary of the Navy Edison referred to was the fact that the navy many times has staged its Pacific maneuvers on the theory that Japan would make a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. In fact, just two years ago, the army and navy staged war games around Hawaii, and the army "sank" the navy by using exactly the same strategy of the Japanese—getting up early and taking them by surprise.

Furthermore, even if U. S. armed forces had not rehearsed these tactics, everyone knew that it was this same strategy of surprise and flank attack which has won Hitler victory after victory. His bombers wiped out Polish airdromes before Polish planes could get off the ground. His troops picked out the one spot in the French Maginot Line, the Meuse, which no Frenchman ever thought he would try.

The fact that U. S. admirals ignored these lessons is now coming under congressional scrutiny. But the explanation is not hard to find. It is in the Annapolis clique of admirals who are the real rulers of the navy.

For instance, the commander of the Scouting Fleet in the Pacific is Admiral Walter S. Anderson. As commander of the Scouting Fleet it was his job to scout for and detect any enemy approaching Honolulu.

However, Admiral Anderson was once commander of the 4th Cruiser Division, and during naval maneuvers in the Caribbean in 1938 his entire fleet was "sunk." He had permitted his ships to come within the direct line of fire of the big guns of the opposing fleet.

This was a blunder which most officers could not easily live down. However, Anderson was an Annapolis classmate of Admiral Harold Stark, now chief of naval operations and a power in the navy. Anderson was made chief of Naval Intelligence. Later, to the surprise of almost everyone, he was promoted to the key command of the Scouting Fleet in the Pacific, where he was supposed to ward off enemy attacks.

Congress Flashes.

WHILE awaiting the appearance of the president, the Republican and Democratic sides of the house presented a striking contrast. The Republicans seemed to have something weighing on their minds—maybe their America First voting records. . . . Charley West, former congressman and undersecretary of the interior, who is suing a defense contractor for some $600,000 in commissions, beseiged Speaker Sam Rayburn's office for a pass to the packed galleries. . . . Scene on the house floor: Wisconsin's bald, dapper isolationist Harry Sauthoff, a La-Follette Progressive, holding an earnest conversation with tall, high-colored "Ham" Fish, New York isolationist. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt took a seat behind one of the temporary steel girders in the gallery reserved for her. She gave the better seats to members of her staff. . . . OPM Director General Knudsen was seated in the first row with senators—and looked a lot more like a senator than those around him. . . . Isolationist Senators D. Worth Clark and Gerald Nye joined in the applause for the president. . . . To one man in the press gallery the historic occasion had a special significance. He was Charles Brook Smith, veteran West Virginia correspondent, who 25 years ago sat in the same gallery seat when Woodrow Wilson asked congress for a declaration of war against Hohenzollern Germany.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you want to find out who people are, you should walk right up to them and inquire. Then you easily ascertain everything you want to know, and that's all there is to it. Frances Whiting, the Cosmopolitan editor, knows this now.

She learned it in Hollywood, where a party was given in her honor. When she got there, the place was alive with connoisseurs of the films, writers, producers, and famous names. It seemed to Frances as she took in the scene that she was able to identify everybody there—everybody, that is, except one sunny young woman who drifted amiably but aimlessly about, familiar with everyone yet attached to no special sect or group.

Miss Whiting looked her over and decided she must be some lovely new refugee from Vienna who would doubtless be turned loose on the movie public soon, and so when she found herself by this young woman's side, she smiled and inquired, "Are you in pictures?"

The young woman's eyes slowly turned from the scene of glitter through which so many celebrated studio jackstraws moved. As they came to rest on Frances Whiting they flooded over with a warm, amused friendliness.

"No-o-o-o," she said, and her mouth described a round little o. "No-o-o-o . . . I'm just rich."

THIS is for you. It's something I caught on the fly, and I thought you'd like to know. I happened to be hurrying through the lobby of the Algonquin hotel and as I picked up a Colliers at the desk, I overheard this remark: "Young Will Rogers looks just like his father . . . He's working for a film company in Hollywood . . . All the Rogers are natural and unaffected. They're absolutely themselves everywhere they are."

I don't know who the speaker was. He was about 40, thin, a little gray at the temples. But I know you remember Will, that often you think of him and wish he were here to debunk the news in that whimsical, cracker-barrel style of his that made him more purely American than any contemporary I can name.

I THOUGHT you'd like to know, too, that sometimes when Albert Spalding, the great violinist, who serves as master of ceremonies with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra, rehearses for his broadcasts, Fiorello, the Little Flower, drops in to listen. More than just a healthy interest in music actuates our new three-term mayor. When MAJOR LaGuardia was with the U. S. Air Corps in Italy during the World war, Albert Spalding was his aide-de-camp, and at LaGuardia's behest he more than once made speeches in Italian for the Allied cause. The day soon may come when the virtuoso will again be the mayor's aide—in the Civilian Defense Drive.

A Farmer's Diary

Young Trapper

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW a keen-eyed thirteen-year-old country boy heading for the stream below the farmhouse with five steel traps dangling from chains over his shoulder.

"I don't intend to set 'em yet," he said, quickly, when he saw me eye his load—"All I'm aimin' to do is to put 'em in the path of the muskrat, mink or skunk so they'll be used to seein' 'em around and won't be scared when I bait 'em.

Six muskrats live in that clump of calamus yonder, and have raided Dad's cornfield since September. They ate the corn and built part of their house with the husks. They're big fellows. I've heard 'em diggin' calamus roots on moonlight nights. Dad says he'll give me 15 cents for every one I catch, besides what I can get for the pelt.

"That's on condition I get up at five every morning and make the rounds of my traps. Pete, my dog, goes with me. Last year, when a neighbor's boy was careless, we knew of a mink that stayed in a trap two days and nights before they killed him. Dad says it's part of being a sportsman to kill your catch as quick and as mercifully as possible . . . even a skunk," he added, grinning shyly.

"I caught a weasel one cold night last fall—I baited with a small live chicken. He'd been into our hencoop and got 10 the night before—but that morning just as I was walkin' toward the barn, I heard the trap snap and the chicken squawked. When I got there, my how that old weasel did smell!

"There's a red fox that has a den up the hill under a big stump. Last spring I saw two young ones playin' round like little pups. I watched 'em through my field glasses. Dad'll give me an extra dollar apiece for them, if I can catch 'em."

"You find trapping makes you some money," I suggested.

"Well—yes—I got almost $50 for my pelts last year. But it isn't only the money that makes me like it. There's something about gettin' out along the creek on a frosty morning before sunup that a fellow looks forward to. The dampness and the stillness and the way the frost sticks to everything like fringes—and old Pete goin' crazy when he scents something in the traps. Then comin' home to show the folks—with three or four animals over my shoulder—I've got a peach of a skinning knife, this year—brand new! In another week or two, I'll be tryin' it out—I hope."

U. S. JOURNALIST TELLS STORY OF ENGLAND'S WAR

"Journey By Margaret" Relates Writer's Experiences While In Bombing Zone.

The story of an American journalist in England under fire is set down in "Journey For Margaret," a new book by William Lindsay White, just received by the Mansfield Public Library.

White, not only went to London to report the war, but incidentally to adopt a British child, a three and one-half-year-old girl, suffering from fear of bombings and losses of parents and foster parents.

His story tells of experiences in fighting night fires and rescuing the wounded as well of the child. Margaret's reactions to treatment and her gradual return to normalcy.

THE SECRET HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION by Carl VanDoren, the Pulitzer Prize biographer of Benjamin Franklin, tells of the maze of intrigue, bribery and treason which almost undermined the American colonists' heroic struggle for independence—of the conspiracies of Benedict Arnold and numerous others—based on the newly discovered and interpreted papers of Sir Henry Clinton, now in the Clements Library in Ann Arbor, Mich. An important item of Americana—well illustrated.

CANDLE IN THE WIND by Maxwell Anderson is the story of an American actress who used all her resources and ingenuity for a year to effect the release of her lover from a German concentration camp. Theirs is a deeply moving story of courage, loyalty, and faith played against a somber background of Nazi trickery and betrayal.

In her previous best seller, "I Married Adventure," Osa Johnson hinted at the remarkable four years when she and Martin Johnson made their home in the elephant jungle on the shores of Lake Paradise. Now in this new book, FOUR YEARS IN PARADISE, she tells the whole fascinating story. It's packed with excitement, humor, glamour and animal lore—and it's all new.

OTHER NON-FICTION: THE CHARLES, by Tourtellot; THE GERMANS· DOUBLE HISTORY OF A NATION, by Ludwig; HERNAN CORTES, CONQUEROR OF MEXICO, by Madariaga; SOAP BEHIND THE EARS, by Skinner; OUTDOOR PORTRAITURE, by Mortensen; THE ROLLEI BOOK, by Heering; ELEMENTARY SURVEYING, by Taylor; ROOSEVELT, DICTATOR OR DEMOCRAT? by Johnson; THE RECORD BOOK SUPPLEMENT, by Hall; UNIVERSAL MILITARY SERVICE, by Summers.

THE HILLS BEYOND, by Thomas Wolfe contains one long story—the history of the Joyner family from the Revolutionary War until 1880—and 15 short stories heretofore unpublished. Out of the enormous manuscripts which Wolfe left at his death, more than half a million words remained after his two posthumous novels, "The Web and the Rock" and "You Can't Go Home Again," had been issued—and from this material a careful selection has been made, representing Wolfe at his best.

Mrs. Appleyard, around whom Louise Andrews Kent's novel, MRS APPLEYARD'S YEAR, is built, will take her place alongside of "Mrs Miniver," "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," and "Aunt Elsa." She is the mother of four energetic, now-grown, children, and wife of an opinionated husband. This is a month-by-month account of those amusing, intimate and homely incidents which give flavor to their life—the family jokes and excursions, the teasing and the loyalty.

BRIGHT SCALPEL, by Elizabeth Seifert is the story of a small town doctor, Jim Wyatt, who went to China to do some real surgery When he returned two years later, he found the town still narrow-minded, complacent, and still outwardly oblivious of the turmoil which wracked the rest of the world. An excellent medical romance

OTHER FICTION: THE DAYS GROW COLD, by Anderson, DARKNESS AT NOON, by Koestler; MAN WITH THE WOODEN SPECTACLES, by Keeler.

New Rayon Yarn May Solve Silk Hosiery Problem

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Milady's tears at the shortage of silk stockings may soon be dried, it is hoped, by the manufacture of new rayon hose which is said to have the sheen, durability and elasticity of silk leg apparel.

While more stores daily report "sold-out" silk stocking shelves, three Pennsylvania mills are testing a new rayon yarn which may solve the hosiery industry's current headache. The yarn, "Ray de Chine," is the invention of a Wilkes-Barre manufacturer who prefers anonymity at present.

The inventor claimed that he has eliminated the chief objection to rayon hosiery—the bagginess that soon becomes apparent. He has done this, he said, by twisting the yarn 45 turns to the inch instead of the 18 turns used in conventional manufacture.

It was asserted enough rayon was being made to make 60,000,000 dozen pairs of hosiery annually—far above the present consumption of silk hose. In addition, the inventor declared, the material can be used on standard 39, 42 and 45-gauge machinery.

CHAPTER XV

Wige Lennin met Carol's eyes with a level gaze when she reminded him that this was their usual "date" night. There was grim misery in his face, but his jaw was set in a fashion that suddenly made her think of Chester Dennison. She never had seen that expression on his face. Nevertheless, she persisted:

"It is Wednesday. And you weren't coming."

"No," he admitted firmly, "I wasn't."

"Why?"

"I think you know."

"Yes, I suppose I do. It's on account of all . . . of that money."

He nodded.

"If that's the way you feel," Carol went on thoughtfully, "perhaps I shouldn't say anything about it. But we have always been rather frank about things. Hasn't it occurred to you that you are acting a little unfairly?"

"What do you mean?" Wige clearly was on the defensive.

"You are giving me reason to feel that it is all my fault . . . that I have done something. Andy made that money. I didn't. It was in the bank . . . the part he gave to me . . . before I knew anything about it. You knew it before I did."

"That doesn't change things," was the stubborn reply.

"What things?"

"Don't you see?" Wige broke out desperately. "You know what I have been hoping for and working for. And now . . . everything's different. I haven't anything. You're rich and . . ."

"And so changed?"

"Well, if you're not, you will be. You can't help it. You won't stay around here long. You'd be silly if you did. I'm not sore about your luck, Carol, I think it's wonderful and I hope it will bring you lots of happiness. But I won't have people hinting that I'm lucky, too. They have and I . . . I can't take it. That's all."

Carol watched him without any change of expression that Wige could detect. Her eyes betrayed a momentary hurt, but the shadow on her face concealed it effectively. There was a pensive note in her voice when she answered, but it was almost as though she were discussing another than herself.

"I think I see what you mean, Wige. I suppose it won't make the slightest difference, but I would like you to know how I feel. Because it's all so queer. Being in the bank you perhaps know that I haven't drawn out a cent of that money. I've hardly been able to realize it's there, and it's mine to spend. You'd think my head would be full of plans. It isn't. You think I won't be here long. That's the queerest part of it all. I can't get away."

"What do you mean you can't get away from Jericho? I could!"

"I'm not sure that I can make you understand. Oh, I might take a little trip sometime, see things and places I've dreamed of. But it seems to me now that I'll always be coming back." Her words came in a little rush now. "Perhaps I shouldn't admit it. Perhaps I'll get over it. But I've lived here ever since I can remember, Wige. I've never hated Jericho because I've never really known any other place. It's like I told Andy the other evening. It's the same as if I'd been shut up all these years and suddenly a door flies open and I can go out if I like. I've read of animals being like that, I think. It's just the first reaction perhaps, but I somehow dread the thought of things being different . . . my friends being different. You are almost the first one who has put it into words. But others feel it. I can tell from the way they look at me. It's as if they were all waiting for me to do something, be somebody else. And I can't. Not yet."

"I don't understand what you are talking about," Wige conceded unhappily. "You talk as if it was a bad break."

"I know it," she sighed. "It doesn't sound sensible, but I'm so used to telling you about things. I wish you could tell me what people say about . . . Andy." She changed her mind swiftly with that last word.

"Oh, they seem to think he was lucky and smart, I guess."

"And what else? You know what I mean."

"Well . . . I've heard one or two intimate that he sort of put one over on this new company."

"That it wasn't exactly . . . right?"

"Oh, no! Just clever. There's always a bunch of soreheads when they think somebody outsmarted them. I guess they didn't think your father ever bothered much with business deals. If it had been somebody else . . ."

"Like Mr. Higgins?"

"Well, yes. People wouldn't have thought anything about it. He's got the name of being shrewd. You know he doesn't often overlook any chances."

Carol sat erect. In an impulsive burst she conceded:

"Yes, I do know that! The same as I know that a lot of people say he's crooked. You know they do. But what Andy did was perfectly legitimate. Mr. Dennison admits that himself. He told me so."

"Did he? He would. Now."

The little note of bitterness in the last word did not escape Carol. She relaxed in her chair as she said wearily:

"All right. Let's skip it then. I still don't see any reason in the world why we can't keep on being good friends."

"Oh, sure we can." The agreement was not exactly wholehearted, but Carol was determined to accept the words at their face value.

"I'm glad you feel that way, Wige. And I want to talk to you about something else. I told you all this wasn't going to make any difference . . . I'm not even planning to give up my job. But I have been thinking of something all day and it's one of the reasons I did want to talk to you."

"What's that?"

"About Charlie."

"What about him?" There was an edge to Wige's voice.

"Doctor Silverthorne was speaking of him not long ago. He had some literature regarding Siloam Springs . . . you know. He said he wished very much that he could send Charlie down there for a time. He believed the treatment might do a great deal for him. It came to me all of a sudden today. Charlie can go now! You and I can send him!"

She leaned forward eagerly.

"You mean you'd foot the bills?" Wige said slowly. "I haven't any money . . . like that."

"I would advance the money, if you'd rather I put it that way. What's money good for, Wige, if not to help people? Think what it might mean to him . . . perhaps a chance to live a happy and useful life! I'd love to do that."

Wige slowly shook his head. Carol fancied there was something almost like a hurt look in his eyes—possibly it was because she could make such a proposal.

"That's great of you, Carol. But I can't . . . I mean it wouldn't do. That's all."

"Just why, Wige?"

"Can't you see? Don't you realize what people would say? I can't take that, either. I'm sorry."

"I suppose you mean you're too proud?"

"Maybe I do."

"Then I'm sorry. I'm sorry for Charlie. But I think I'm sorriest for you! I know how much you . . . what he means to you. Do you think I don't know you'd give anything and everything to help him . . . that you've been wishing and wishing he could try those treatments? You've told me so. You're big and you're strong. Charlie's almost helpless and he may never be any better if something isn't done. It's strange, Wige, that you can stand in his way . . . because you're too proud."

"But you don't understand, Carol! We're like that. We can't help it."

She regarded him with a faint curiosity, almost as if he were a person with whom she was not well acquainted. But she tried again.

"Suppose it were the other way around, Wige. I love Andy most of all. If he were sick, if he needed help that I couldn't give him but you could, would you expect me to let you help us both?"

"Why, sure. That would be altogether different. You'd have to be a man to get what I mean. There are things a man can do and there are things he can't."

"You may be right. I wouldn't know. But there are things a woman can't do, too. Like understanding why she can't share with those she cares for. I do care for Charlie."

"I've asked you to share things with me, Carol. I've asked you to share everything and—"

"But, Wige, I didn't refuse out of any pride. I told you the reason I wasn't ready to give you the answer you wanted. I couldn't be a burden. It didn't seem fair. If things had been different then."

"They're plenty different now," he interrupted dully. "Your father has fixed it so I can't ask you again. Unless something happens to put me more nearly in your class. And that isn't likely. Not here in Jericho."

"I see," she answered simply. "Maybe it's got you sort of muddled the same as me. But it's all right. Andy's like that, too, the old darling. I suppose I shouldn't tell on him, but all he's done in the way of celebrating is to buy two boxes of good cigars and a used car for me. A little one."

"That's nice." Wige seemed relieved to have her change the subject. "You'll enjoy having a car to run around in."

"I expect so. But I don't know how to drive. Tip Gordon's going to teach me," she added hurriedly for fear Wige might think she was hinting for lessons.

After that, both of them made a valiant effort to converse in a casual fashion, but with little success. Shortly after nine Wige decided that he must go and Carol made no effort to detain him. At the front door she said:

"It was nice of you to come, Wige. Please remember me to your mother and Charlie."

"Oh, sure. Thanks and . . . good luck."

Good luck instead of good night. A wave of resentment swept over Carol. She never had thought that possible—with Wige. But there was no sign of it in her voice.

"I'll be seeing you—but not calling. Good night, Wige."

She closed the door with a little shiver. The outer air was cold. If Wige answered, she did not hear him.

A Christmas Table

Christmas can inspire clever but cheap centerpieces for your festive parties or family suppers. The children can concoct one like this with an old mirror for the pond and cotton puffs for snow banks. Silver a twig for a tree, add a bit of glitter from the Christmas tree trimmings and make the skaters from pipe cleaners. Such a smart setting is a good gift, too. And you can get the star-shaped holders in several sizes. The table mats shown here are inexpensive and are usable several times. Because they are treated with wax to be soil resistant. "Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I KNEW, of course, that my father was being over-cautious on my account, but I could not help an uneasy tremor of uncertainty as he carefully stepped to one side of the door before opening it the length of the night chain. There had been so many bizarre happenings since Marion's disappearance that I found my mental machinery geared to expect almost anything.

"Well?" he asked through the opening. "What's wanted?"

The voice of one of his guards answered him, speaking in low tones I caught only two words. "Police," and this car outside."

Careful of Madge.

"Tell them I'll be right out," he said, then closed the door and came back to me.

"I shall have to delay you a bit," he said, "but I won't be long. The police want to know about the armored car the gangsters have left on the street, and I shall have to enlighten them a bit.

"Please put up that night chain after I go out, then find yourself a chair and wait until I knock upon the door, two short raps and two long, repeated three times. Then open the door only to the length of the chain, to make sure that I am the person knocking."

"I'll obey you exactly," I told him, and a sudden quizzical smile touched his lips.

"Even if you do think I'm an old fuddy-duddy," he said, I was so astonished at this unexpected departure from solemn routine that I almost failed to protest his comment.

"I don't think anything of the kind," I managed to exclaim indignantly at last. But he was through the door by the time I had finished.

I put up the chain, closed the door, and sat down in the nearest chair, wondering what disposal he meant to make of the gangsters' armored car. Wondering was as far as I would get, I told myself a trifle bitterly, for I did not expect that my father would have either time or inclination to tell me about it. But in less than five minutes I answered his signaling knock, and was surprised to hear him make what was for him an expansive comment.

"The police will take that disabled armored car to a garage and keep it under guard until I decide what to do about it," he said. "The three men here certainly won't be given a chance to use it, and the other two are still being trailed by my men. I have no doubt they will round both of them up before nightfall. Now, if you'll excuse me just a second, we'll be on our way."

Instructs a Guard.

He went out at the door, returning almost at once with one of the basement guards.

"Lock this door," he instructed, "and put on the night chain. Don't take the chain off for anyone you don't know. You don't need to stay up here, but listen for the bell or knocker."

"Okay," the man said, and then my father ushered me out and into his armored car, which still stood at the curb.

"The Lansfield!" he said to the driver, "and make haste — but safely."

"You have quite a program before you this afternoon," he said, and I tensed to attention.

"Something Blue."

"If you'll just tell me what you wish," I said, "I'll try not to forget anything."

"I should be very much surprised if you did," he said graciously.

"Will you be able to get hold of Mary as soon as you get to the hotel?" he asked.

"I think so," I answered. "She ought to be awake by now."

"Then please lose no time in getting hold of her and telling her about that message of Marion's concerning 'something blue.' Have you thought that reference may have some very special significance?"

HOROSCOPE

A DAY OF "mixed influences" astrologically is read from the predominant configurations. While there should be excellent prospects in business, professional and financial engagements, with more than usual social, domestic and emotional activity and happiness, yet there is need for discretion and sagacity with possessions, new ventures, all major projects, since impetuosity, an inclination to indulgent or lavish expenditure, hasty or reckless acts in any direction may prove hazardous and imperil good fortune and security. Be alert to fraud and imposition.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an exceptionally pleasant, happy, and propitious year, with much personal, social, domestic and affectional satisfaction, with good business and financial prospects and fulfilled ambitions. Yet all calls for discretion, sound judgment, restrained action, vigilance against fraud, misrepresentation, imposition. Impetuosity, rashness, over-extravagances and indulgences may undermine most propitious conditions for attaining ambitions and personal pleasures.

A child born on this day should be enterprising, energetic and ambitious, being well endowed for a successful, and useful life, with much personal popularity, prestige and romantic happiness.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN NOT TO DOUBLE.

AN INFORMATORY double, for a takeout, shows about the same amount of strength with nearly all strong players. But with the keenest of them, it denies possession of a two-suited hand. The policy urged by this department for more than eight years is finally being adopted by the overwhelming majority of top rankers. When they have a two-suiter of doubling strength in high cards, they bid "one more than necessary" in one of their suits, so that on their next turn they can show the other suit and so give a choice to their partners. This obviously makes passe the old use of that bid, which many stuck to stubbornly—merely a weak hand with a long suit.

There is the way the bidding went at several tables of the same duplicate. Where a double was used, South had a terrible job to do on his next turn. He was afraid to bid one of his suits, for fear he would be left in the wrong one. If he bid 5-hearts, North might count him as probably having a very fine heart suit and leave him in it even if short in it himself but with good support. If he bid 5-Spades, he might find the cards disposed as they are, and take a beating. Anything he did might be wrong, so he compromised on a double, setting the opponents only three tricks, for what to them was a fine sacrifice.

5 ♦	Dbl
2. 1 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass

Notice how much easier it was for the fellows who showed their spades the first time. They could bid their hearts without a qualm after West had proclaimed his general weakness. Several Souths made small slam in hearts, though none bid it.

That jump bid, with fine players, is considered primarily to show a two-suiter. If it is a great one-suiter, they can rebid it on their next turn. The main point is this: Don't double when you have a two-suiter of take out double strength.

What is the best action of South to take after East opens the bidding on this deal with 1-Club?

The Story So Far: Princess Hildur is bound by three promises to three witches who live in a deep cave. She has promised them her first three wishes after she is 21.

Chapter Eleven

FIRST WITCH WHISPERS IN HILDUR'S EAR

NOW the three witches who lived underground had dreadful powers. The witch in the first cave could make every plant she saw wilt and die. The second witch could look at any bird or beast and it would drop dead. But the third was the worst of all. She could look at men and make them want to fight and kill each other.

They had walked through the land a hundred years before Hildur entered their cave. They had been taken prisoner by very brave men. They were allowed to leave behind them, however, an opal which blazed crimson when the light fell on it. The opal had this power if it fell to earth from the hand of a good person it could open the stairs which led into the witch's cave.

And, as you know, that is what finally happened. It fell from the hand of Princess Hildur when she was only ten, and she had promised the witches her first three wishes after she became 21.

So the day Hildur was 21 the witches were very excited. They sat very still in their caves so they could hear if Hildur made a wish.

And of course she did. Her father, the King, gave her a fine party. There were May-poles all over the castle lawns around which maidens danced while the finest musicians played.

THE best horsemen of the kingdom held a tournament and the man who won was given a big, red rose by Princess Hildur.

Then there was a dance by very small boys and girls which Hildur liked particularly because the small girls were dressed as violets and the small boys as bright, red poppies. The program ended with the singing of a hundred people dressed in white robes who stood on the palace lawn.

Then the King stood up and signalled for everyone to be still. He smiled at his subjects who seated themselves quietly on the lawn to listen. Then he said, "This is a happy day for my wife, the good Queen, and me because today our princess comes of age. We feel she has a good heart and a wise head and that we can safely see her become Queen some day."

The crowds shouted. The King smiled and went on, "So today we are giving her, as a birthday present, her first symbol of the duties that will some day be hers."

He motioned to a knight beside him to come forward. The knight carried a white box tied with a white silk ribbon. The King took it and handed it to Princess Hildur. She blushed quite rosy and opened the box. The people could hear her gasp, "How lovely!"

Then she lifted the gift out. It was a little golden crown with flashing blue sapphires set around the top. The King took it and placed it on her yellow curls.

PRINCESS HILDUR felt half frightened as she looked at the people sitting on the lawn, and realized that one day they would look to her for leadership. They would ask her help when their wheat crops failed, when invaders came into the land, and when their children were ill.

She started to wish to herself, "Oh, I wish—," but just then she heard a whisper in her ear. It was the voice of the first witch, and it said, "No, Hildur, that wish is mine. You promised it to me on your tenth birthday. And I wish to be free. I shall see you tonight."

Hildur said nothing more. The party went on. But Hildur was very disturbed.

JOINS DEMANDS FOR TAX SPLIT

Mansfield Delegation Attends Protest Session; Mayor Goes Alone.

written statement which was being prepared.

Locke's stenographer said that the statement had been dictated and would be typed out by 11:30 a. m. When a messenger was sent to the mayor's office for the statement at 12, noon, the stenographer said that although the statement had been ready for a half hour that the mayor had not yet read it. The mayor said he would not finish reading the statement for another 15 minutes.

Miller said that his group had been in accord with the resolution adopted at the meeting. The resolution asked that Governor Bricker:

1. Appropriate $6,000,000 to wipe out the balance of the state school foundation debt.

2. Provide a more equitable distribution of all cales tax and other revenues by the state to local governments.

3. Appropriate sufficient funds so that local governments can provide enough fire equipment, and police manpower and adequate other protection against war-time sabotage.

The resolution was adopted after nearly a score of speakers placed the state's treasury combined surpluses at more than $20,000,000, of which $11,000,000 was from the stles tax.

State Senator James Metzenbaum, who is a national co-ordinator for civilian defense in Onio, after bitterly assailing the failure to call a special session, led the fight for a share of the surplus on the ground that it is "desperately necessary to meet local defense costs." He said New York and other eastern states have already aided local governments in this respect.

Richland county was represented by Commissioner C. C. Mitchell. Mitchell said today that he thought that some of the mayors had legitimate arguments for funds but that he thinks they are "wasting their time." He stated that he thought Gov. Bricker would hold the surplus until after the first of the year and then propose reduction in the state sales tax rate.

At Party for New Citizens

Last night was a big night for more than 100 foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county who recently were approved for citizenship after passing their examinations in common pleas court. Some of them are shown above at the Chamber of Commerce party for them at John Simpson Junior high school. In the top photo, Mrs. William Mosey, left, a hostess, greets Mr. and Mrs. William G. Auer, 184 Ausdale avenue. Mrs. Auer received her naturalization papers last night. She is of German birth. Below, a group of the new citizens are shown enjoying dinner in the school cafeteria preceding the program in the auditorium.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—I realize that price control is a dry subject, but I am going to keep harping on it at the risk of boring my readers until I am licked: I sincerely believe that price stability is vital to the effective mobilization of our resources for defense.

Johnson

Recently I discussed the advisability of setting up a price-fixing board representative of the great demand agencies, consumer supply, army, navy, maritime commission, and perhaps treasury and lend-lease. Such a board should insure an appreciation of the important inter-relationship of price and supply.

The original bill authorized the president to buy and sell any commodity "upon such terms as he shall deem necessary to obtain the maximum necessary production of marginal or high-cost producers, or to prevent price increases inconsistent with the purposes of this act." The house bill restricts the power to buy and sell in order to "obtain the production of marginal or high-cost producers."

Two points are here involved, whether the power is adequate and what is the appropriate agency to exercise such power. Some power is clearly required. Whenever prices are fixed a highly probable result is that some possible additional output must be foregone. This is a simple consequence of the fact that output varies with costs.

In some instances the possible addition to output is negligible. In other cases it may be large but unimportant. But, in a complex system such as ours, there are many instances where a significant addition to output can be made at a higher cost. In still other instances a small but crucially important addition to the military program may be made.

In many cases it is unwise to fix a price high enough to bring out maximum output which would result in windfall gains to many producers. This procedure was on occasion followed in the World war. The result in the case of steel was a price high enough to cover Bethlehem, which was then a high cost producer—mainly because of the cost of its ore supplies—and considerably higher than was necessary for other producers. The present bill provides ample authority for such cases. In the Bethlehem case the government could have bought and delivered the ore and thus avoided the necessity of fixing a special price for the steel produced by Bethlehem. The current bill should provide for such cases. Whether it does so or not only lawyers can determine.

Suppose the government wished to buy up the entire supply of some material at a fixed price and after taking the amount necessary for defense, sell the residual for what it would bring. In many cases this would provide a convenient method of preventing profiteering without introducing elaborate and cumbersome rationing by allocation. Such power should be provided if it does not already exist.

It is doubtful whether the more general power to buy and sell in order to prevent price increases inconsistent with the objectives of the bill, is either desirable or necessary. Of course, the reason congress may have eliminated this power is the ease with which it could have been abused to completely socialize industry.

Whether the power to buy and sell should rest in this or that agency is an open question. An agency set up to fix prices certainly would not be appropriate for this type of work. The RFC defense corporations and the procurement services appear to be the logical agencies. It appears to me, however, that Jesse Jones' corporations and the procurement services have shown a reluctance to buy high-cost output, because it looks "bad" on the books. Perhaps a proper solution is to have the price administration decide when and how much to buy and to have the existing agencies carry out the decision.

SEAL SALE AIDS CAMPAIGN TO UNCOVER T. B.

Health Officials Report 49 New Cases In County During Past Year.

Tuberculosis struck at at least 49 persons in Richland county during 1941 and several others who contacted the disease in former years continued to receive treatment.

Public health officials conducting monthly clinics at the rooms of the Health Department in the Municipal building uncovered 31 cases in the city, five in Shelby and 13 in other parts of the county.

Members of the Richland County Tuberculosis association are conducting their annual Christmas Seal campaign to obtain funds for fighting this disease during 1942. Letters containing packets of the seals have been mailed out to Mansfield residents who will use them to seal letters and Christmas presents.

Out of every dollar contributed for the Richland county fight against tuberculosis, 80 cents remains in this county to be used for diagnostic and case finding work

During 1941, more than 400 persons were examined in 14 clinic sessions. X-rays were taken and physical examinations were given. Several of these persons returned for a re-check.

In addition to this routine examination, a new program for the examination of all Richland county high school juniors has been started.

Although all persons, regardless of age, are aided by the association, emphasis is being placed on the 15-to-25 year class. Tuberculosis causes the death of more persons in this age group than any other disease.

Members of the Auxiliary of McVey Post, American Legion, are aiding in the sale of Christmas seals, maintaining offices in the Mansfield and Shelby post-offices.

Word received from Columbus, Georgia, tells of the appointment of Major Clarence R. Hien as division dental surgeon for the Fourth Motorized Division, heading all dentists in the organization. War clouds may loom overhead but the response to Santa's appeal is still tremendous. At least that is what the Parents club of the Mansfield Senior high school a cappella choir found out when they let it be known the club would maintain a Santa Claus service from Monday, Dec. 15, through the holidays. The club received numerous calls from persons eager to arrange for Santa's appearance at parties or family gatherings and it looks like the plan devised by the club to raise funds to pay for choir robes will be a big success. Incidentally, there is a charge of 50 cents for a home appearance and the charge for parties will depend upon the size of the affair.

The boys of the Newman school Junior Red Cross are just as handy with knitting needles as the girls. When an afghan block was set up as the admission "fee" to the Junior Red Cross party yesterday afternoon the boys didn't hang back for want of a specimen but proudly displayed samples of their knitting. Enough blocks were received for a complete afghan which will soon be ready for war relief.

Less than two hours after the United States declared war on Germany yesterday, a woman called the sheriff's office to ask if it would be all right if she continued to sing German songs with a quartet at entertainments. Deputy John Whitcomb who was on duty was stumped for a minute and then he came back with the suggestion that if the woman has any neighbors who have a special hatred for the Nazis, it might be wise for her to confine her singing to American songs.

UNIONS AND INDUSTRY GET INVITATIONS

Forestalling of Anti-Strike Legislation Seen Likely Through Conference.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — An early truce among warring labor factions seemed virtually assured today with President Roosevelt's call for a joint labor-industry conference next week to plan for interrupted war production.

He extended invitations to CIO President Philip Murray and AFL President William Green to designate representatives of unions affiliated with their organizations to attend. Both have urged such a conference and were expected to accede quickly.

Mr. Roosevelt also requested the chairman of the commerce department's business advisory council to send 12 representatives of industrial management. He later will appoint a moderator and an associate moderator.

An indication that industry would promptly accept was given in a chamber of commerce announcement that American business, on the basis of "thousands" of telegrams already received, has pledged its full cooperation in whatever services are demanded for duration of the war.

If the conference is a success, it is expected to forestall enactment of pending anti-strike legislation.

In announcing the president's action last night, the White House said the prime objective would be to reach an agreement obviating the possibility of work stoppages because of labor disputes, and added:

"It is not expected that there will be any hesitation on the part of either labor or industry to accept this basic condition of the nation's safety."

Meanwhile, the OPM moved rapidly to put workers and industry on a full war-time basis. Latest steps included:

Announcement of further drastic reductions in automobile production quotas for December and January.

An appeal to the AFL and CIO to swing into the seven-day 168-hour production week without waiting to first adjust regulations governing work assignments.

Imposition of price ceilings on additional items vital to the war effort.

A call for more extensive subcontracting and pooling of the facilities of industry.

The new auto quota will result in a curtailment of approximately 75 per cent in production of passenger cars and light trucks in January, compared with a year ago. December production, under the new quotas, will be about 61 per cent under December, 1940.

JURORS REJECT WILL CONTEST

Upholds Testament of Late Mrs. Clara Casey Who Left Church Groups $87,000.

A jury in Richland county common pleas court today had upheld the will of the late Mrs. Clara Casey of Mansfield who left the bulk of an $87,000 estate to St. Peter's Catholic church, Mansfield; the Catholic Orphans' home at Toledo, and the Parmadale Orphans' home near Cleveland.

The action contesting the will was filed by the late Mrs. Mary Kirkendall Erndt, daughter of Mrs. Casey. Mrs. Erndt died after the suit was filed and the action was continued by John Erndt, administrator of her estate.

The original will, drawn up in Aug. 1, 1932, left Mrs. Erndt $1,000, but a codicil to the will later reduced the bequest to $100.

Defendant in the suit was Saundrae Ann Kirkendall, minor, daughter of Mrs. Erndt. The child's grandmother set up a $5,000 trust fund for her until she is 21.

Motion for a new trial of the case, filed by Atty. Van C. Cook, representing the plaintiff, was overruled by Judge C. H. Huston.

'PROTECT YOUR FREEDOM,' NEW CITIZENS TOLD IN PARTY TALK

Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert told more than 100 recently naturalized citizens of Richland county at a Citizenship party in Mansfield last night that "You now have all the freedom and benefits of any other American, but you also have grave responsibilities in helping to protect that freedom."

Nearly 700 persons attended the program in the John Simpson junior high school auditorium. Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the party said they plan to make it an annual affair.

Following talks by Herbert and five community leaders and a musical program, 60 new citizens filed across the stage to receive their naturalization papers from Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning. They were members of a class of 79 approved last month by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, one of the speakers last night. Others in the class received their papers earlier. The group represented 14 nations, of which Germany and Italy are at war against the United States.

Most of the new class and a number of members of the May class of new citizens were present, however, for the party in their honor. W. J. Russell, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce educational committee, was in charge.

"All races and creeds have found freedom in America since the first colony was established more than 300 years ago and now that freedom, the American way, is threatened by aggressors," Herbert said.

"We have been attacked and we will see this through. We will see that we not only win the war but the peace as well, and we will establish a system in this world that will retain freedom and peace for a long time.

"Here in Ohio and the nation we have some awful political fights at election time," Herbert continued, "but when it comes to aggressor nations, we are always together to protect the flag. There are no Republicans or Democrats now. We are all back of the president to win. The American people have never been defeated and never will be, because you can't defeat a great spirit."

Judge Huston told the new citizens that "Your duty now is as great as that of the boys on the battlefield. While others are serving in the front lines, we at home must learn to sacrifice too.

"Your citizenship papers may be destroyed, but you have demonstrated that you are fit to be citizens. One way you can help is by living decent lives and helping others to abide by the laws. We have neither the time nor the money now to spend on crime."

Guy E. Shawk, representing the Sons of the American Revolution, talked on the history and significance of the American flag. The S.A.R. gave small flags to the new citizens.

Among the speakers were Robert C. Remy, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who welcomed the new citizens; Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, subbing for Mayor William J. Locke who was out of the city, and Jesse Beer, guidance counselor in Mansfield schools, who replaced Supt. of School W. L. Miller on the program. State Representative John L. Catlett introduced Herbert.

The response and acceptance of citizenship were by Alexander Hanusz and Mrs. Anne Auer, members of the naturalization class. Also participating in the progrm were Vincent Disanza and Miss Eleanor Orosan, children of members of the class. Young Disanza, who is of Italian descent, played three violin numbers. Miss Orosan sang one of her native Roumanian songs and an American song. She wore Roumanian costume.

The Mansfield Little Symphony orchestra, directed by Eugene Weinberger, played six numbers. Preceding the program in the auditorium, the new citizens were guests at a dinner in the school cafeteria.

Food Baskets Go Out to 300 Under Will of Grocer

For the third year, a bequest by a Mansfield grocer who died in October, 1939, is bringing Christmas food baskets to 300 needy families of the city.

The will of George J. Morris, for many years proprietor of the Mohawk Cash Store at 38 North Adams street, provided that each year for five years his estate should provide Christmas baskets for 300 families deserving of relief.

The stipulation was carried out at Christmas in 1939 and in 1940. Again this season, Robert M. Morris, son and executor and present operator of the store, is preparing for distribution of the baskets. He has mailed out to 200 families cards which may be redeemed for baskets filled with canned goods and other staples. Cards will be mailed to the other 100 families next week.

The list of names was obtained by Morris from J. V. Finney, Richland county relief director.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Would you like to know how the war came to Broarway? To the cafes and the smart bars and the dancing places where the glitter crowds play and the glamor girls practise their tinkling laughter? To the little taverns where the soldiers were spending their leaves? To the brightest street in the world? Would you like to know what it was like on the first night of the war in the biggest city in America?

Kilgallen

Well, it came quietly and like a thunderbolt. It came to the newsstands in damp black headlines and through the loudspeakers in hurried, electrified voices. It came in snatches of conversation overheard at a bar . . . "bombed Pearl Harbor" . . . "two hundred killed, they said" . . . "Oklahoma burning" . . . "the Japs . . . the Japs . . . the Japs."

And then suddenly you saw it on all the faces in all the places.

At El Morocco the band played the Star Spangled Banner and the whole room rose and when it was over there was such cheering and noise and applause as the zebra-striped cafe has never heard. At Leon and Eddie's the comic Eddie sang "God Bless America," but there was no comedy in the way he sang it, and every customer in the club stood at attention as if it were the national anthem, and many were weeping.

When there were floor shows, the jokes didn't seem very funny. Where there was music, the people danced as if this was their last night for dancing. The Stork Club was crowded and gay, noisy with a new kind of hurried merriment. Arthur Treacher and his wife were there, Danny Kaye alone, George Jessel danced with his Lois. Joan Blondell sat with her sister, Mrs. Cubby Broccoli . . . and the talk in all corners of the room went: ". . . if we get the base at Valdivostok" . . . ". . . the President" . . . "... we got the aircraft carrier."

Shortly after dawn, my father, Jim Kilgallen of INS, took off for San Francisco en route to Honolulu. He is an old hand at the news game, and he is the best I know, and it is no novelty to see him off on a big story. But this was different, because this time he was going to the war zone.

When I said, "Take care of yourself, Dad," he said lightly, "Oh, it's only a little hop," and I said, "I know. I've made it."

But I made it flying eastward in peace time, and he is going westward through the flames of war.

And so this is my Godspeed to him.

A few years ago my Dad was assigned to cover my take-off in the Hindenburg as I started around the world. It was a midnight takeoff in the rain and darkness, and in his story that night my Dad wrote: "When I saw the big dirigible disappear into the darkness with my little girl aboard, there were tears on my cheek. I was not a reporter, then. I was a father."

I know now what he meant.

On the morning of the second day of the war, I was not a reporter. I was a daughter.

Roof Spotters - In Britain Now Total 20,000

LONDON—(ANS)—Britain now has 20,000 "super-roof spotters" belonging to 410 clubs of the National Association of Spotters.

As there are now over 450 different types of aircraft and new designs are being introduced continually, the roof spotters' task is no easy one.

Spotters in order to obtain their preliminary badge, must be able to identify and classify 62 types of airplanes, both friendly and enemy, while in flight.

For the second-class badge the spotter must be able to immediately identify at least 125, and first class 180 types.

Hundreds of spotters, both amateur and professional, have passed their first class tests. They are people who throughout the 24 hours, keep rooftop watch on offices, shops and factories.

To enable ease in identification, the Ministry of Home Security have allowed parties of spotters to tour various air stations and study the shape of airplanes.

Sam White, first flying warden in North America, still uses airplanes to apprehend game violators in the frozen wastes of Alaska.

Require Permits From Christmas Tree Retailers

Richland county Christmas tree dealers who sell live trees with the roots attached must obtain a state nursery stock dealer certificate at a cost of $10 before they can legally sell their greens, County Agent, George B. Ganyard pointed out today.

The law applies to nurserymen who sell trees with the roots in tubs or wrapped in burlap ready for planting.

Dealers who do not grow their own trees are required to have a dealer certificate for each place of business. The dealer certificates are also $10 each. They may be obtained from the Ohio Department of Agriculture after the dealer declares his source of stock.

No state certificate or permit other than the usual vendor's license is required to sell cut Christmas trees without roots, the county agent explained.

AMERICANS LIKE CHEESE

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Americans are eating more cheese, E. E. Vial of the Department of Agriculture said recently. Total consumption increased 36 per cent during the past decade — from 567,592,000 pounds in 1930 to 770,003,000 pounds in 1939. Most of the increase was in consumption of American or cheddar cheese — from 67.5 per cent of the total in 1930 to 72.5 per cent of the total in 1939.

Invents A Boat Whistle Which Can Also Be Seen

NEW YORK—(INS)—John Hays Hammond, millionaire Gloucester, Mass., inventor, today has a new item on his long list of gadgets.

His latest invention is a boat whistle which can be seen as well as heard. Hammond demonstrated the whistle recently on his two masted, 120-foot schooner Odysseus III on the Hudson river.

With a press of a button, a white cloud of dense smoke spurts from the whistle and remains visible for a long time after the sound of the whistle has died down.

"A visible signal is an aid in navigation," Hammond said. "Such a signal can be recognized in traffic where many boat whistles are going at once and can be recognized when sound is against the wind."

Hammond, who has over 500 patents on items ranging from torpedoes to pipe organs, said the chief problem of the invention was to get the smoke "cloud" to last long enough to be seen.

DEPUTY RESIGNS

ASHLAND—Deputy Sheriff H. Earl Kaylor has resigned to take a position as guard at the Plum Brook ordnance plant. His resignation is effective Saturday night. No successor as yet has been appointed. Sheriff L. D. Hammond has several deputies who have been serving on special duty.

'HOPE CHESTS'

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Contrary to the popular belief that it is an "ill wind," etc., the nation's draft of militarily-eligible young men is booming the business of manufacturers of "hope chests."

Manufacturers say it is the result of the upsurge in romance to which the draft has contributed heavily. The legendary custom of keeping hope chests, and storing them with feminine ammunition against the day when Johnny comes marching home, has been intensified.

The fisheries production of Ontario in 1940 had a market value of $3,035,100.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Our not too terrific Tygers of the moment will walk into a whirligig of wild and woolly, but wrathful, Wildcats on vengeance bent tonight at Newark.

Just to refresh your memory, you may recall that a really terrific band of Tygers tagged a 31 to 0 defeat on the Wildcats this fall at a time when Newark, undefeated, was beginning to think it had a football team.

The Wildcats aren't just thinking now. They've got a basketball team, and they're ready to wreak vengeance on the Tygers.

It wasn't so much the fact that Mansfield defeated Newark in football that irked the Wildcats.

It was the score the Mansfielders piled up on them. Newark got the idea that the Tygers were "pouring it on," and that they didn't like.

Tonight's tilt won't be any tea party, but the Wildcats are all prepared to "pour."

* * *

The fans will holler: "We want more!"
Each time the Wildcats make a score.

Up in the press box at that Newark football game, the scribes were amazed at the ease and dexterity with which the Tygers pushed over their first touchdown. By the time Mansfield scored again, they were beginning to get used to the idea.

And right then they began asking: "When is Snyder going to begin sending in his subs?"

And later: "He doesn't need to pour it on this way."

* * *

"When I was coaching at Mt. Vernon," asks Snyder, "how often did you see Newark easing up on us when they were ahead?"

The coach of another team this fall accused Snyder of "pouring on."

"Why do we play this game?" Snyder asked him. "We teach the boys how to make the plays work, and when even the subs make 'em work for touchdowns, what do you want me to do? Tell them to run the wrong way?"

* * *

One game is much like another, and it isn't sportsmanship to ease up so your opponent will look better. So if the Newarks are able to pile up points tonight, the Mansfielders should be able to take it in stride if they've played hard and tried their best.

This revenge business, carried over from the football season, is apt to be popping up at the bucketball Tygers this winter.

Tomorrow night it's Elyria's turn in a game at Senior high gym. But the advance hype gives Elyria only a slight edge, and if Coach Vern Hoffman's new combination starts clicking, maybe these grudge battles won't be so hard to take after all.

FIGHT SET

NEW YORK—(AP)—Young Kid McCoy of Detroit meets former welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh in a ten-round slugfest at Madison Square Garden tonight, with the winner advancing one notch toward a shot at Freddie Cochrane's title. McCoy, who has won 45 of his 54 fights since turning professional in 1938, ten of them by knockouts, is favored at odds of 5 to 7.

Kenyon, Kent Cagers Win

Denison, Findlay Lose In Initial Loop Tilts.

(By Associated Press)

Kenyon college and Kent State university today boasted victories in their initial Ohio conference basketball games of the season.

Kenyon made a second half recovery to hand Denison university a 52-46 defeat in its first loop start last night, with Forward Lynch and Center Smith each contributing 17 points to the winning total. Denison led at the half 24-22.

Paced by Don Blair, sophomore guard from Cuyahoga Falls, Kent State beat Findlay 37-25. Blair made 13 points.

* * *

Free throws gave Fairmont, (W. Va.) Teachers college a 62-46 victory over Marietta college at Marietta. The Teachers sank 18 shots from the free throw line.

Earlham beat Cedarville 66-40 at Richmond, Ind.

* * *

Tonight's schedule: Findlay at Ashland (Ohio conference), Heidelberg at Baldwin Wallace (Ohio conference), Kent State at Toledo, Muskingum at Ohio Wesleyan, Youngstown at Duquesne, Bluffton at Ohio Northern, Wooster at Miami, Oberlin at Allegheny, Tiffin at Rio Grande, Bethany at Capital, Defiance at Mt. Union.

John Simpson Cage Team Clips Union

John Simpson junior high school cagers walloped Union township school, 32-17, yesterday on the Simpson court.

* * *

High scorer was DeRue of Simpson with six field goals and one free throw for a total of 13 points.

* * *

The Simpson reserves won their game from the Union reserves,

CALIFORNIA-GEORGIA TECH GAME CANCELLED: WAR

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—The University of California-Georgia Tech post-season football game was called off today because of war conditions. It was to have been played here Dec. 27.

Kenneth Priestley, California graduate manager, said the game was cancelled at request of the Georgia Tech authorities because a number of the southern players expected to be called into national service immediately.

Georgia Star With Broken Jaw Catches Eye of Southern Fans

By DILLON GRAHAM, Sports Editor, AP Feature Service.

NEW YORK—Perhaps no football player caught the imagination of the fans this year as did a broken-jawed Southern star who played with his chin tucked behind a special guarding harness.

This University of Georgia halfback, Frank Sinkwich, who became the country's leading ground-gainer, was named today on the All-American team along with another Dixie standout, high-scoring Bill Dudley of the University of Virginia.

Sinkwich picked up 1,102 yards rushing in 10 games, just 20 short of the record of Byron (Whizzer) White four years ago. Dudley's figures are almost too amazing to believe. Besides topping scorers with 134 points, he gained 2,467 yards in rushing, passing, and punt and kick-off returns.

Rounding out the backfield of this 17th annual All-America, chosen by The Associated Press after a nation-wide survey of expert opinion, are Frankie Albert, Stanford's clever quarterback, and Bruce Smith, captain and ace ball-carrier of Minnesota's mythical national champions.

The Middle West, as last year, gained a plurality of All-America positions, landing four stars on the first team and nine on the complete squad of 33. The South furnished eight men to the full squad. Then came the Far West with six, and the East and Southwest with five each.

The Far West produced the only repeaters from the 1940 club—Albert and Bob Reinhard, versatile tackle of the University of California. At the other tackle is Dick Wildung of Minnesota, giving the Gophers two representatives on the first team.

The rest of the line forms with Missouri's captain, Darold Jenkins, at center, Harvard's Endicott Peabody II and Pittsburgh's Ralph Fife at guards, and Texas's Malcolm Kutner and Wisconsin's Dave Schreiner at ends.

Three Juniors.

Sinkwich, Schreiner and Wildung are juniors; the others, seniors. Nine seniors and two juniors—Albert and Reinhard—were named last year. The All-America line averages 197 and the backfield 182. Virginia, Wisconsin, Texas and Missouri are listed for the first time since the Associated Press started selecting the All-America in 1925 after the death of Walter Camp.

* * *

Dudley's selection breaks another precedent. At 19, he is the youngest back ever chosen. Jose Martinez-Zorilla, 1932 Cornell end, and Gaynell Tinsley, 1935 Louisiana State end, were also 19 when named.

* * *

Dudley, who toted and pitched the ball for gains of nearly a mile and a half, tallied 18 touchdowns and passed for a dozen more. He also kicked 23 extra points and one field goal.

He was a standout every Saturday, from his 4-touchdown splurge in the opener through his finale against North Carolina when he scored three touchdowns, passed for another and kicked four extra points.

Bill was a one-man gang! He covered 957 yards rushing in 157 tries, completed 58 of 107 passes for 857 yards, ran more than 500 yards on return of kicks and did virtually all of Virginia's punting with a 36-yard average. Although on the small side as today's star backs go, Dudley was durable. He played 50 minutes or more of every game. Captain of the Cavaliers, Dudley was a good blocker and excellent on the defense.

Albert Retains Berth.

Frankie Albert flashed to the front in 1940 when he led Stanford's miracle team through an unbeaten season and a Rose Bowl triumph. While the Indians slumped this season, Albert didn't. Far West experts rate him an improved player.

This southpaw passer and left-footed kicker did everything that could be asked of a back. He ran, tossed, kicked, blocked well, booted the extra points, called signals and played a bang-up defensive game. He polled more votes than any other player on the All-Pacific team, 44 of 46.

Sinkwich was a sensation Saturday after Saturday. He never had a bad day. Coaches remembered this when they chose him unanimously for the All-Southeastern team. In Georgia's only defeat, by Alabama, Sinkwich personally outgained the entire 'Bama team.

* * *

Frank scored seven touchdowns, passed for 10 more and kicked a field goal. He gained 1,102 yards dushing and passed for another 700. Sinkwich, rated as Georgia's best defensive back and a fine blocker, kicked off and handled part of the punting with a 40-yard average.

In Georgia's second game, with South Carolina, Frank suffered a fractured jaw and played the later games with a protective head-

Cardinals Sell Mize to Giants

CHICAGO—(AP)—The big merry-go-round of the major league winter baseball meeting had just about run down last night when the St. Louis Cardinals suddenly turned Johnny Mize over to the New York Giants—and there was the deal for which the bosses of the 16 clubs had been watching since Monday.

Mansfield Tries New Lineup

Tygers Invade Newark, Meet Elyria Tomorrow.

MANSFIELD high school's revamped cage team starts another busy week-end today in search of its first victory of the season.

Tonight the Tygers invade newark where they meet a Wildcat team that went far in the state tournament last spring, and already is being doped as one of the outstanding favorites for this year's state title.

And tomorrow night at senior high gym they take on Elyria, a team that defeated Findlay 29 to 24 the night before Findlay edged out the Tygers last week.

The Tygers with a lineup that appeared set from the first practice session, definitely weren't clicking in the fashion that had been expected of them as they fell before Columbus South and Findlay in their opening tilts a week ago, and Coach Vern Hoffman is attempting a drastic shakeup in the lineup in an effort to produce a scoring punch that won't fade in the last half.

Big Bob Winbigler has been shifted from guard to forward where his size should make him valuable on rebound shots, and Dean Hahn, sophomore southpaw who shows promise of developing into a scorer, is being tried at the other forward.

Paul Dietzel, center, and Jack Shiplet, guard, keep their accustomed positions, and Ken Krupp, rugged football halfback, moves up to the guard spot vacated by Winbigler.

* * *

Hoffman tonight will have an opportunity of seeing how this new combination works against one of the best teams in the state. If it clicks at all, it should go even better against the rest of the clubs on the Tyger schedule.

Rams to Use New Backboard Tonight

Using a new fan-shaped backboard and a short team Madison high school opens its Richland county loop season tonight against Bellville—and the Rams are favored to win.

Explaining the new backboards, Coach Al Fendrick said yesterday that because the edges are cut off a lot of bad shots which previously bounced off the board enabling a second shot will miss the board completely. He said he believed the boards to be the first to be used in this area.

* * *

Already short the Ram squad may be further shortened by the displacement of Delbert Posten, center from last year, with either John Gross or Dick Bader. If this is done, Fendrick said his team would average 5 feet seven inches.

High scorer for the day was Jocka of the Rex billiards team with 15 points—seven field goals and one foul shot—followed by J. Wentz of Daleys with 14 points made on seven field goals.

Because of the Christmas program at the settlement further play has been postponed until Dec. 23. Mike Wentz, Friendly House physical director, said.

gear. But for this injury, Sinkwich's record might be even more imposing. His rushing and passing totals might have been higher, too, had he had effective receivers and more than a mediocre line in front of him.

Smith Key Man.

Bruce Smith was the chief cog in Minnesota's unbeatable machine, a crack passer, breakaway runner, accurate and long punter and, perhaps most important, the player who sparked the Gophers' offense.

* * *

It was Smith who scored both of the touchdowns in the gruelling opener with Washington; who broke up most of the tight duels, including the tough encounter with Michigan in which he was hurt; who finished sensationally against Iowa and Wisconsin.

Smith was the difference in the Michigan game. He punted 70 yards, over Kuzma's head, to the Wolverines' 12 and, on the return kick, Minnesota barged to victory. After Iowa had taken a touchdown lead, Smith rushed into the fray and in six plays led the Gophers to the tying score. Then he quickly paced two other scoring drives. He shattered a Wisconsin team that had been holding the Gophers by engineering four touchdowns in six quick bits of ball-handling.

The Minnesota captain was a good defensive player, an excellent tackler and blocker and a sure safety man. This son of Lucius Smith, a Gopher tackle 25 years ago, richly earned All-America rating in spite of a leg injury that hampered him in mid-season.

Coach Bernie Bierman summed up Smith's value after the final game when he said: "Bruce finished just like he started—by breaking up every game in which he played."

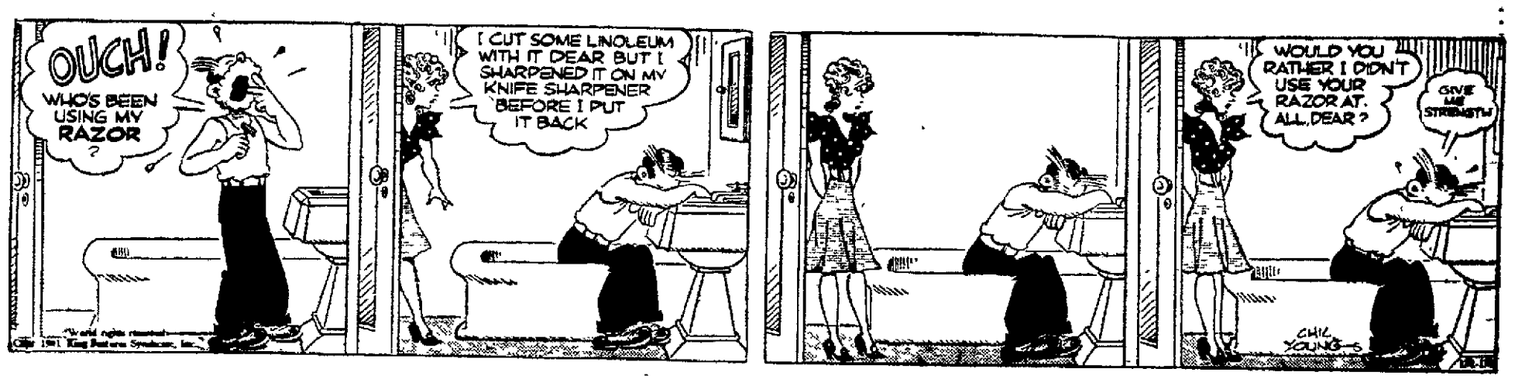
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Linger a Little Longer.

By Harold Gray

I HAVE A VERY IMPORTANT TRIP AHEAD—WAS SPEEDING TO CATCH ONE OF OUR BOMBERS, GOING FROM MY PLANT, WHEN WE SMASHED UP—
WELL, YOU'RE O.K.—WHY DON'T YOU GO AHEAD?
IT'S ANNIE! I'D INTENDED TO LEAVE HER WITH FRIENDS, THE SLAGGS, IN THE CITY—COULD SHE TRAVEL THAT FAR NOW?
BETTER TO STAY QUIET FOR A WHILE—WHY DON'T YOU LEAVE HER HERE?
12-12-41
OH, WE DON'T WANT TO IMPOSE ON YOU—YOU'VE DONE ENOUGH FOR US ALREADY—
NONSENSE—NELLIE'S A FINE COOK AND HOUSEKEEPER—LOTS OF ROOM—PRETTY LONESOME HERE—IF ANNIE COULD STAND IT SHED CHEER US UP A LOT—
WHAT ABOUT IT, ANNIE? YOU HEARD THE DOCTOR'S KIND INVITATION—
I'D LIKE THAT A LOT—IF I WON'T BE TOO MUCH BOTHER—
LISTEN TO THE CHILD—WHY, YOU'LL MAKE A HOME OUT OF THIS OLD HOUSE—
HAROLD GRAY

BLONDIE— Never a Dull Moment!

By Chic Young



OUCH! WHO'S BEEN USING MY RAZOR
I CUT SOME LINOLEUM WITH IT DEAR BUT I SHARPENED IT ON MY KNIFE SHARPENER BEFORE I PUT IT BACK WOULD YOU RATHER I DIDN'T USE YOUR RAZOR AT ALL, DEAR?
GIVE ME STRENGTH!
CHIC YOUNG

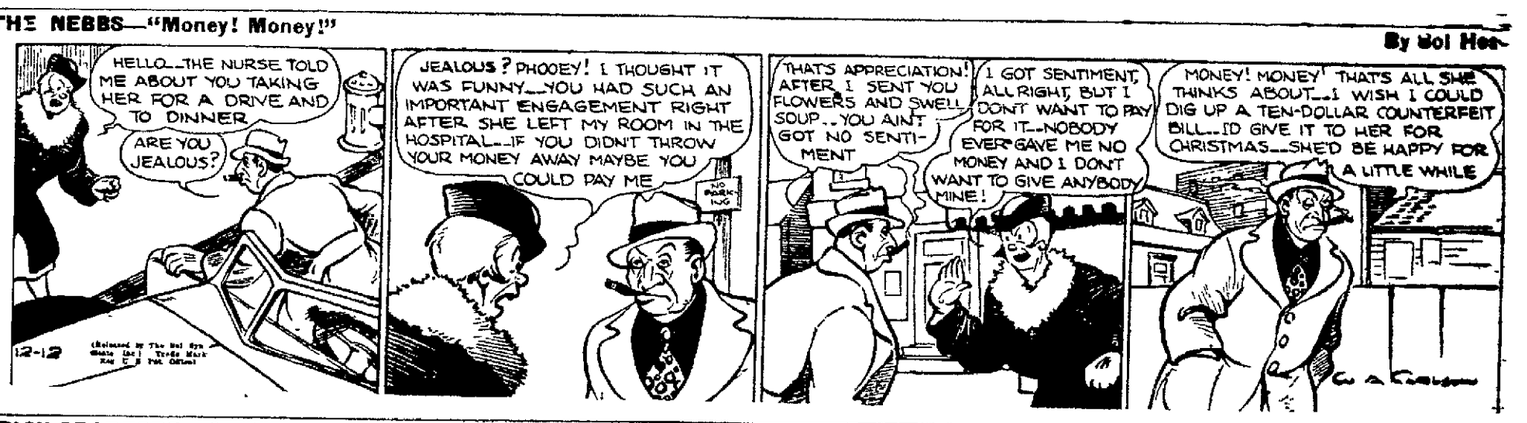
PAM— "Hand It Over"

By A. W. Brewerton

WHAT IS TAKING PLACE ABOARD THAT FAST-FLYING TRANSPORT? WHAT IS ABOUT TO HAPPEN? WHAT WILL BE PAMS FATE?
12-12
YES, I UNDERSTAND, I'LL BE GLAD TO HIDE IT.
SH—HHH!!
QUICKLY PAM SLIPS THE ENVELOPE UNDER HER!
BUT NONE TOO SOON! THE HEAVY-SET MAN COMES THROUGH THE DOOR, DOWN THE AISLE
OH, DEAR, HE'S LOOKING RIGHT AT US!
ALL RIGHT, I'LL TAKE THAT CASE—

THE NEBBS— "Money! Money!"

By Sol Hess



HELLO—THE NURSE TOLD ME ABOUT YOU TAKING HER FOR A DRIVE AND TO DINNER
ARE YOU JEALOUS?
12-12
JEALOUS? PHOOEY! I THOUGHT IT WAS FUNNY—YOU HAD SUCH AN IMPORTANT ENGAGEMENT RIGHT AFTER SHE LEFT MY ROOM IN THE HOSPITAL—IF YOU DIDN'T THROW YOUR MONEY AWAY MAYBE YOU COULD PAY ME
THAT'S APPRECIATION! AFTER I SENT YOU FLOWERS AND SWELL SOUP—YOU AIN'T GOT NO SENTIMENT
I GOT SENTIMENT, ALL RIGHT, BUT I DON'T WANT TO PAY FOR IT—NOBODY EVER GAVE ME NO MONEY AND I DON'T WANT TO GIVE ANYBODY MINE!
MONEY! MONEY! THAT'S ALL SHE THINKS ABOUT—I WISH I COULD DIG UP A TEN-DOLLAR COUNTERFEIT BILL—I'D GIVE IT TO HER FOR CHRISTMAS—SHE'D BE HAPPY FOR A LITTLE WHILE

SELECT STOCKS STILL ATTRACT TRADER BIDDING

Wall Street Refuses To Get Excited Over War News; Gains Reported.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Bidding for selected stocks persisted in today's market as Wall Street refused to get excited over war bulletins.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were well distributed at an active opening. Dealings then slackened and a little profit taking trimmed plus signs here and there near the second hour.

Developments in the Pacific still were too indefinite to provide much bullish market ammunition although the financial sector leaned toward optimism from a speculative standpoint. Happenings on the industrial front provided some encouragement.

Boardrooms scanned the Dun & Bradstreet survey which said that business throughout the nation was "shaping itself rapidly and with relative calm to a full war footing."

"Panacky" buying, the agency added, has been of moderate proportions and confined to a few items. It was found that the "letdown in holiday buying, while mild in most regions, was dramatized by a more substantial reaction on centers on the east and west coasts which were subject to air raid warnings."
